June 23, 2025 -

Southeast Softwash LLC, a well-known company in the soft washing industry, has just announced the Tote Goat. This new product is an exciting option for professionals wanting to build a pressure washing setup using an IBC Tote. Southeast Softwash is dedicated to quality and customer satisfaction, and they offer a wide range of equipment, supplies, and training for soft washing. With this latest product, they aim to further aid entrepreneurs and businesses in the field.

The Tote Goat pressure washer skid package reflects Southeast Softwash's innovative mindset. It's designed for those who want to customize their pressure washing systems. Whether one is a professional or a hobbyist, this solution is both efficient and versatile. It allows customers to transform an IBC Tote into a highly effective pressure washing skid, making it a practical and economical choice for mobile operations or unique logistical needs.

Chesca Rev, a spokesperson for Southeast Softwash, shared her excitement for this new offering. She said,

"The Tote Goat is crafted to help our clients build high-performing pressure washing systems. By turning an IBC Tote into a pressure washing skid, customers can benefit from its modular design and easy setup. It's perfect for those who enjoy a hands-on approach to building their systems."

Alongside the Tote Goat, Southeast Softwash provides related products that enhance the setup. Their range of pressure wash chemicals is popular for effectively cleaning and maintaining surfaces without causing harm. These chemicals prioritize user safety and environmental impact, making them a dependable choice for various cleaning tasks.

In addition to chemicals, the company offers a strong selection of soft wash pumps. These pumps play a key role in delivering cleaning mixtures efficiently and precisely, boosting the system's overall performance. By combining the Soft Wash Pump with the Tote Goat pressure washer skid and a well-equipped IBC Tote, users gain a powerful and flexible cleaning tool ideal for a variety of situations.

Southeast Softwash doesn't just sell equipment and supplies. They are committed to empowering their clients through education and support. Programs like the Serious Starter Bootcamp and Softwash 101 provide detailed insights and hands-on experiences. These sessions equip participants with the skills needed to operate their systems safely and effectively. Additional details about their training programs are available on their website.

Chesca Rev emphasizes, "Our training programs are thoughtfully designed to help attendees understand the details of soft washing. Whether one is new to the industry or an experienced professional, our courses offer valuable knowledge and practical skills."

As Southeast Softwash grows and adapts, they continue to focus on building a community grounded in innovation, support, and empowerment. Their blog, rich with articles and tutorials, serves as a valuable resource for clients wanting to stay informed on best practices and industry trends.
