K L Contractor Plumbing Highlights Simple DIY Sink Fixes in Latest Blog Post

June 23, 2025

MARIETTA, GA - June 23, 2025 -
Dallas, TX ? K L Contractor Plumbing has published a new blog post aimed at helping homeowners quickly and easily solve one of the most common kitchen issues: a clogged sink with a garbage disposal. The post, titled ?Quick & Easy Ways: How to Unclog a Kitchen Sink With a Garbage Disposal?, delivers step-by-step instructions that can save time, money, and stress.

The company continues its commitment to delivering helpful content that makes plumbing problems less frustrating for families and individuals. The post can be read in full at their website.

Marketing Director Alex Laldin says the blog is part of an effort to answer the most searched and asked questions that come from their customers. ?We get calls all the time about clogged sinks, and many people don?t realize there are simple, safe ways to get things flowing again before calling a plumber,? said Laldin. ?This blog is about giving people those options. If you can fix it yourself with just a reset button, that saves everyone time and money.?

The article lays out a practical approach that any homeowner can follow. It begins by advising users to check if the disposal is plugged in and whether the reset button has popped out. From there, it provides tips for using a plunger correctly and explains when baking soda and vinegar can be effective. The guide also covers how to use a hex key to manually rotate the disposal and dislodge stuck debris, and when to avoid chemical drain cleaners that could damage components.

Laldin notes, ?We wanted this blog to be short, direct, and genuinely useful. There?s nothing worse than trying to cook or clean and being stuck with a backed-up sink. A little knowledge goes a long way.?

This post is one in a growing series of blogs by K L Contractor Plumbing Inc. that are written with the goal of simplifying home plumbing maintenance. Each article uses plain language and walks readers through common issues like toilet running, low water pressure, or noisy pipes. With clear instructions, the company hopes to build trust with readers and reinforce their role as a reliable source of support whether the fix is easy or it turns out professional help is needed.

As a licensed, insured plumbing business that?s proudly served the Dallas-Fort Worth area for years, K L Contractor Plumbing Inc. has built a reputation for dependable service and honest communication. The company works on both residential and commercial plumbing systems and can assist with everything from water heaters and leak repairs to full plumbing remodels and new construction.

Laldin added, ?Our goal isn?t just to get a service call. We want people to know they can count on us for real advice. Sometimes the answer is calling a plumber, and sometimes it?s just flipping a switch. Either way, we?re here to help.?

The blog also includes helpful warnings about safety precautions. Users are reminded to always unplug the garbage disposal or turn off power at the breaker box before reaching into the drain. The article closes by explaining when it?s time to stop trying to fix the problem alone and instead schedule service with a professional to avoid causing damage or injury.

K L Contractor Plumbing Inc. encourages both new and existing customers to check out the blog and learn more about how to keep plumbing systems running smoothly with less guesswork. The company plans to continue adding to its blog with simple, effective advice for the most frequent plumbing challenges homeowners face.
