Premier Detroit SEO, a business in Roseville, MI, is proud to announce that their managing partner John Susko has achieved a Google AdWords Certification. This goes a long way towards proving that they are a professional SEO company and that they are committed to only offering their clients the best possible knowledge and expertise. The certification ensures that any AdWords campaign are managed properly and that they provide their clients with a solid return on investment.

John Susko himself says: "The certification is a Google professional accreditation offered only to those who demonstrate that they are proficient in every aspect of AdWords, basic and advanced alike. Holding this certification means that Google knows I am a true professional. The exam is really tough as well, so I must say that I am quite proud of myself for passing it."

Becoming certified in Google AdWords has a number of benefits. It demonstrates clear expertise and existing and prospective clients alike are able to show that they are truly professional and knowledgeable about AdWords. It also means that Premier Detroit SEO can hold the Partner Badge. In so doing, they can guarantee that they offer high quality services to their clients as a whole, and not just when Susko delivers the services personally.

The Michigan SEO company has long been highly respected for the work that they deliver. "John greatly exceeded my expectations and I will definitely be using him for future projects," says Chad H. "His tenacity with SEO was second to none and his insightfulness into my project took it to the next level. John, you are a man of character and you will go far in life. Your skills are among the best I've encountered. To much success."

Now that Premier Detroit SEO is listed as a professional SEO company, they have seen a tremendous rise in the number of clients that they are attracting. While many of these are now specifically asking for AdWords services, the company does also offer other types of SEO services, which are also very effective - especially when used in the right combinations. They encourage everyone to complete the discovery form on their website to receive a free consultation on their existing position.
