

Go Industries Launches Medium Duty Grille Guards for Trucks: Elevating Safety and Style with Easy Installation

July 09, 2025

Richardson, TX - July 09, 2025 -
Go Industries Inc., known for its truck accessories and law enforcement gear, has excitedly launched its new Medium Duty grille guard designed for vehicles like the Chevrolet C4500, Chevrolet C6500, Ford F650, Ford F750, and International CV515. This step up reaffirms Go Industries' long-held promise of delivering strong vehicle upgrades since 1978.

The Medium Duty grille guard offers added protection without cutting or drilling needed, making installation easier for vehicle owners. These guards are specially designed for tilt-body vehicles, allowing easy access with a forward articulation feature. This benefit makes maintenance jobs simpler. The grille guard is fully welded with headlight brush guards from 1.9" by 14-gauge tubing and 2.5" center cross tubes, promising strong durability. Plus, they come with a winch tray that fits most brands up to 16.5k, vital for drivers who need trustworthy tools in tough situations.

Go Industries pays close attention to detail with a black textured powder coat finish on the grille guards, boosting both looks and resistance to wear. The laser-cut center screen made from 18-gauge material adds both style and protection to the design. This product line shows Go Industries' focus on blending usefulness with an eye-catching design to meet the varied needs of their customers.

The company proudly manufactures all their grille guards, bumper replacements, and headache racks in the U.S.A. This dedication ensures high standards of quality and craftsmanship while supporting local economies through jobs and rigorous quality checks for reliable deliveries.

A spokesperson from Go Industries said, "Our aim has always been to offer top-tier equipment meeting both the practical and quality demands of our clients. The new Medium Duty grille guard reflects this mission, equipping drivers with products to support their vehicles in everyday and tough conditions."

Beyond grille guards, Go Industries provides a wide range of truck accessories including air flow tailgates, mud flaps, and steps. Their skill also extends to law enforcement equipment, creating special accessories for major vehicle brands like Chevrolet, Dodge, and Ford, offering custom solutions for specific needs.

The company also enhances customer experiences by providing extensive resources on their website, including product instructions, catalogs, warranty details, and helpful videos. These resources are invaluable for customers seeking guidance on using Go Industries' wide array of products effectively.

Additionally, the company is keeping up with modern digital payment methods by accepting cryptocurrency, showing their adaptability in welcoming different payment options as part of their customer-first approach. Go Industries also provides a newsletter subscription, which keeps customers updated on product releases and news.

The spokesperson noted, "We aim to ensure seamless interaction with our customers, providing complete support and resources readily available. By broadening our product range and optimizing our digital footprint, we're committed to keeping the trust and reliability our customers expect from us."

For anyone interested in these new products or in need of more information, Go Industries offers direct contact options for sales and tech support, providing tailored help for individual needs. Links to various product categories, including truck accessories, law enforcement equipment, and custom manufacturing, can be quickly accessed through their easy-to-use website.

In summary, the release of the Medium Duty grille guard highlights Go Industries' ongoing commitment to growth, quality, and customer satisfaction in the truck accessory market. As they continue to innovate and increase their offerings, Go Industries stays at the forefront, delivering reliable, American-made solutions that meet and surpass the expectations of their wide range of clients.
