Milestone Church, a life-giving and Spirit-filled church known for its commitment to developing people, is proud to announce the official launch of Lead to Win, a new digital platform offering leadership resources through a dedicated website and weekly podcast hosted by Founding Pastor Jeff Little. Created for pastors, ministry teams, business professionals, and aspiring leaders in any field, Lead to Win delivers practical tools, biblical insight, and timeless leadership wisdom rooted in real-world experience.

The new website, LeadtoWin.com, provides access to the weekly Lead to Win podcast, along with short-form video content, articles, downloadable resources, and practical guidance for personal and organizational leadership. The content is designed to be simple, actionable, and spiritually grounded, giving leaders the support they need to grow, lead effectively, and build something that lasts. Whether you're leading a church staff, managing a business team, or guiding your family, Lead to Win offers relevant encouragement and direction for every step of the leadership journey.

Pastor Jeff Little brings over 30 years of ministry leadership to the table, having grown Milestone Church from a small group of people into a multi-campus church reaching thousands weekly. Known for his relational style, strategic thinking, and passion for equipping others, Pastor Jeff shares his own leadership lessons along with insights he's gained from mentoring leaders and navigating the demands of building a healthy, growing church. His voice is both relatable and deeply rooted in Scripture, making each podcast episode a meaningful experience for leaders at any stage.

Since its early rollout, Lead to Win has already reached thousands of viewers and listeners across multiple platforms, including Apple Podcasts, Spotify, YouTube, and the dedicated website. Engagement has been high across social media, and leaders are reporting that the content is already impacting their personal growth and team dynamics. Initial episodes explore topics such as navigating leadership fatigue, making wise decisions, leading through conflict, and building long-term culture—all from a biblically sound and practical perspective. With each release, Pastor Jeff aims to speak directly to the real challenges leaders face while providing hope-filled, effective solutions.

Though designed for a broad audience, Lead to Win is especially timely and relevant for the local church. Pastor Jeff created the platform with ministry leaders in mind—those who are passionate about people but also dealing with the pressures of leading teams, managing resources, and casting vision in an ever-changing culture. The tools provided through Lead to Win are already being used by churches across the country for staff development, volunteer training, and team-building conversations. Many are integrating video clips into leadership huddles or using the podcast to encourage and equip their next wave of leaders. One church staff member shared that listening to the podcast on Monday mornings has become a new team tradition, providing a boost of clarity and encouragement to start the week.

The structure of the website allows users to quickly find what they need, whether that's streaming the latest episode, browsing past topics, reading transcripts, or finding a two-minute video clip to share with a colleague or team. Visitors can subscribe for updates, explore leadership themes, and access a growing library of wisdom drawn from real leadership trenches—not just theory. While the content is always spiritual in nature, it is intentionally packaged in a way that connects with both ministry professionals and marketplace leaders, making it a powerful resource for anyone looking to lead with excellence and integrity.

The response from the broader community has already affirmed the need for this kind of resource. Church networks, Christian universities, and business leaders have expressed interest in using Lead to Win content as part of their training programs, mentorship tracks, and leadership cohorts. Future plans include live workshops, virtual gatherings, and extended leadership conversations with featured guests, all of which will be designed to strengthen the body of Christ and inspire transformation in the places people are called to lead.

The podcast releases new episodes each week, covering topics like emotional health in leadership, building momentum, stewarding influence, and leading through crisis. The website continues to expand with curated content that addresses timely issues with spiritual wisdom and proven strategy. Whether you are looking to develop yourself, strengthen your team, or create a culture that honors God and builds people, Lead to Win was created with you in mind.

Reporters, bloggers, and Christian media outlets are encouraged to explore the website, listen to the podcast, and reach out to Milestone Church for additional information or interviews with Pastor Jeff Little. His perspective on leadership, church growth, organizational culture, and spiritual development offers valuable insight for any story focused on the intersection of faith and influence.
