Back in April 2024, a client represented by Horst Shewmaker was involved in a rear-end collision that resulted in significant damage to her vehicle and personal injuries. The driver who hit her was cited for following too closely. Initially, the client experienced knee pain, which later spread to her shoulders, neck, and back, along with recurring headaches. She sought medical help quickly and, after chiropractic treatments didn't fully relieve her symptoms, she was advised by a specialist to undergo physical therapy.

Horst Shewmaker's legal team acted fast to address the financial issues arising from this accident. They submitted all medical records and bills to the insurance company of the at-fault driver, securing the policy limit of $25,000 in compensation. Although the client's medical bills were higher than this amount, the attorneys continued their efforts to secure additional compensation. When the Underinsured Motorist (UM) insurance carrier refused a fair settlement, the firm filed a lawsuit and ultimately achieved an additional $13,000 settlement for the client.

Michael Horst, a prominent attorney at the firm, commented, "Our resolve to see justice done for our clients is unwavering. This case exemplifies the lengths we will go to. Each client has unique challenges, and it is our duty to guide them through the legal process with dedication and skill."
