February 17, 2016 -

Durham, DH - Simply Pets Online has recently launched a new product on the online marketplace, Amazon. The product named Slow Feed Cat Bowl is designed to professional standards and created to slow down the amount of time pets take to consume a meal. The cat bowl is also built to be eco-friendly and durable.

According to Simply Pets Online, the slow feed cat bowl was designed by professional veterinarians who use the cat bowls daily in their own clinics. As a result, the company says the cat bowls are effective at what they do while being durable. The main purpose of the bowl is to promote healthier and slower eating by pets that tend to quickly gulp down items of food presented to them. The result is that it prevents regurgitation of food as well as overeating. Since they will be taking their time to consume meals, pets will also have a reduced incidence of bloating.

The slow feed cat bowl is manufactured with the highest standards in the industry. The product is approved by the US Food and Drug Administration (FDA). Additionally since the feeder bowl is to be sold in the European market, the company ensured they received a LFGB certification. This is a German certification that meets European requirements and signifies that it passes food safety and sanitation laws and regulations.

According to Simply Pets Online, the slow feed cat bowl is made from high quality eco-friendly materials. The cat bowl is created from natural food materials that are safe for use with pets. These include rice husk and bamboo fiber. That means the product is both non-toxic and biodegradable.

According to a spokesperson from Simply Pets Online, ?pets will feel fuller on a smaller amount of food when they use the slow feed cat bowl. The feeder bowl is made with a unique puzzle design that can be used to hold either dry or wet foods. The design of the bowl allows the food that is placed in it to last longer.?

The slow feed cat bowl remains durable due to the material it is manufactured from. The bowl is tough and will last long. It tends not to crack or break if inadvertently dropped. It is shatterproof compared to other similar products made from chalk or ceramic.

The slow feed cat bowl can be purchased online exclusively on Amazon at an affordable price. The bowls come in three fun colors which are blue, purple or ivory.
