Century Pools Introduces Free Safety Inspection Program for Inground Pool Owners

September 26, 2025

Orangevale, CA - September 26, 2025 -
Century Pools, a pool construction company in business since 1964, has introduced a free pool safety inspection program designed to help homeowners maintain their inground pools throughout the year. The comprehensive inspection service addresses critical safety components and maintenance needs that can prevent accidents and extend pool longevity.

The new program offers homeowners professional evaluations of their pool's safety features, including barrier systems, drainage covers, electrical components, and structural integrity. Each inspection follows industry safety standards and provides homeowners with detailed assessments of their pool's current condition, along with recommendations for necessary improvements or maintenance.

"Pool safety requires ongoing vigilance and professional expertise to identify potential hazards before they become serious problems," said Patrick O'Neal, representative of Century Pools. "Through this free inspection program, we're helping pool owners understand the specific maintenance their pools need while ensuring their families can enjoy safe swimming environments year-round."

The inspection program comes as pool safety awareness continues to grow across California, where thousands of residential pools require regular maintenance and safety updates. Proper pool maintenance and safety measures can prevent many pool-related accidents while also protecting the significant investment homeowners have made in their properties.

Century Pools technicians conducting the inspections are trained to evaluate all aspects of pool safety, from water chemistry balance to equipment functionality. The inspection covers pump and filtration systems, pool surfaces, decking conditions, and compliance with current safety regulations. Homeowners receive a comprehensive report detailing any areas of concern and recommended actions.

The program reflects the company's commitment to pool safety beyond initial inground pool construction. Drawing from decades of experience in inground pool construction, the company has observed how regular inspections can identify minor issues before they develop into costly repairs or safety hazards.

"We've seen firsthand how preventive maintenance and regular safety checks can make a significant difference in pool performance and family safety," added O'Neal. "This free inspection service allows us to share our expertise with the community while helping pool owners protect their investment."

The inspection service is available to all residential pool owners in the Northern California region, regardless of who originally built or currently maintains their pool. Scheduling typically takes less than an hour, and homeowners receive their inspection report within 48 hours of the visit.

Century Pools has built its reputation on quality craftsmanship and customer service over nearly six decades of operation. The family-owned business maintains an A+ rating with the Better Business Bureau and specializes in various inground pool types, including gunite, freeform, and geometric designs. The company serves Sacramento, Roseville, Lincoln, Elk Grove, and surrounding Northern California communities from its headquarters in Orangevale.
