MT. LAUREL, NJ - September 12, 2025 -
Newark, New Jersey ? Survivors of Abuse NJ, led by renowned civil litigator Joseph L. Messa, Esq., has become a trusted resource for survivors of child sexual abuse seeking justice across New Jersey. The firm is widely recognized for its dedication to holding abusers and negligent institutions accountable, while providing trauma-informed advocacy for survivors who endured childhood abuse.

Child sexual abuse remains a devastating and underreported crisis, often occurring in institutions once considered safe havens such as schools, religious organizations, sports programs, and childcare centers. Survivors face long-lasting trauma, including anxiety, depression, PTSD, and relationship difficulties, which makes compassionate and skilled legal representation essential. In New Jersey, civil laws now allow survivors to file lawsuits until age 55, or within seven years of discovering the abuse?whichever comes later. This extended window has empowered countless individuals to come forward for the first time and seek accountability.

Survivors of Abuse NJ, based in Mt. Laurel, has earned its reputation through decades of passionate legal advocacy and survivor-centered support. The firm represents clients across the entire state, including Newark, Jersey City, Camden, Mercer, and Morris Counties. Under the leadership of Joseph L. Messa, Jr., Esq., a board-certified trial attorney with more than 30 years of litigation experience, the firm combines strategic legal action with trauma-informed care. Survivors are ensured a supportive environment where their voices are heard, their rights protected, and their cases vigorously pursued.

?Childhood sexual abuse cases require more than just legal expertise?they require compassion, patience, and a survivor-first mindset,? said Joseph L. Messa, Esq. ?Too often, victims are silenced, blamed, or retraumatized. Our mission is to change that dynamic and amplify their voices, whether in courtrooms or during negotiations with powerful institutions.?

Messa and his team have secured numerous multi-million-dollar settlements and verdicts on behalf of survivors. Their cases often involve child abuse committed by clergy, teachers, daycare workers, medical professionals, and organizational leaders. Survivors benefit from not only the firm?s litigation experience but also its network of support services, including therapists, victim advocacy organizations, and crisis resources.

The Abuse Lawyer NJ is also known for conducting thorough investigations and exposing systemic failures that allow abuse to occur. The firm works with expert witnesses, reviews internal records, and uncovers hidden patterns of misconduct to strengthen survivors? cases. Messa?s deep understanding of New Jersey?s Child Victims Act has positioned the firm as a leader in representing individuals who were previously barred by outdated statutes of limitations.

?Every survivor deserves the chance to hold those responsible accountable,? Messa added. ?Whether it?s an individual abuser or an institution that turned a blind eye, our goal is to fight tirelessly for justice while providing a pathway to healing.?

The team at Survivors of Abuse NJ is committed to guiding clients through each step of the legal process, balancing aggressive advocacy with sensitivity to the emotional challenges survivors face. By reshaping how child sexual abuse is addressed legally and culturally in New Jersey, the firm continues to stand as a beacon of hope for those who have endured unimaginable harm.
