Groundhog Turf Care, a lawn care service based in Derry, New Hampshire, is rolling out updates to its well-regarded tick control program. Known for its dedication to keeping outdoor areas healthy, the company is committed to tackling common yard pests effectively. Kicking off in April, the revamped tick control service will follow a new schedule designed to provide better coverage throughout the months when ticks are most active.

David Ciampa, representing Groundhog Turf Care, stated, "We're excited to implement these updates to our tick control program. Our focus has always been on providing safe yet efficient solutions to help our customers enjoy their outdoor spaces. We believe these changes will significantly enhance the effectiveness of our tick control efforts."

Groundhog Turf Care tick control services take place from April to October, offering monthly visits. The program is proactive, featuring targeted spraying methods that establish a protective barrier against ticks.

This strategy helps reduce the risk of tick bites, which can cause health problems for both people and pets. By blending knowledge about ticks with cutting-edge tools, the company provides a strong defense against these pests.

The tick and mosquito spraying service stands out because of its non-toxic formula. It's safe for pets and people to be around once it dries, meaning families can quickly go back to enjoying their yards. The improved success of the Groundhog Turf Care tick control solution has earned high praise and is evident in customer reviews. For instance, a recent five-star review praised the program's effectiveness in controlling tick numbers.

In practice, the tick control strategy takes a comprehensive approach. During each visit, technicians apply solutions that account for tick life stages, nesting spots, and feeding areas. This thorough method, paired with a deep understanding of where ticks live, makes the Groundhog Turf Care tick control service stand out in pest management.

Apart from tick control, Groundhog Turf Care offers an array of services to keep lawns healthy and attractive. Their lawn care services include fertilization, grub control, and weed management. Additionally, tree and shrub care features deep root fertilization and plant health upkeep, all aimed at maintaining lush outdoor spaces. David Ciampa further noted, "Our commitment is to deliver high-quality lawn care that meets the individual needs of our clients. The enhancement of our tick control program is a testament to this commitment.
