Albuquerque, NM business B2B Advisor Hub is drawing attention to its free business quotes service for those who are interested in VoIP, or voice over internet protocol systems. This is said to be the 'new best thing' for businesses, as it is cost effective and highly reliable. The phone services that businesses have to pay for with traditional landlines are standard with a VoIP phone service for small business. B2B Advisor Hub is ready to help clients find the best VoIP service for their needs through their no cost 'ask an expert' service.

B2B Advisor Hub's Cynthia Goranson says: "By using our platform the business owners save time and money because we research the top providers in their area. Then, those top providers answer the business owner's questions and give them the best price quotes. That way the business owner doesn't have to waste time doing research."

The 'ask an expert' service offered by B2B Advisor Hub is completely free to use, there is no obligation and no credit card required. It provides people with five free quotes for a service they are looking for. All they have to do is answer a few questions through B2b Advisor's website, and they will be directed to the providers who are able to deliver the VoIP services they need. They have also included a number of VoIP phone service reviews, so interested parties are in a better position to truly compare the market.

The 'ask an expert' service is proving to be incredibly popular, particularly because it covers so many areas of importance to businesses. Besides VoIP services, B2B Advisor also offers quotations for water delivery and even gourmet coffee, for instance.

For B2B Advisor Hub, the goal is to make sure businesses can run as efficiently and comfortably as possible. The company believes that VoIP offers a wealth of benefits over traditional services. "VoIP aims to eliminate long distance fees that people normally have to pay. Not only are such services costly, they are also pretty much useless with the advancement in technology. With a VoIP, you will be able to save costs and make your phone usage far more efficient."

Business owners are encouraged to compare VoIP phone service providers through B2B Advisor Hub completely free of charge.
