London, UK, FEB 2, 2016 ? Traditions and rituals for specific occasions, celebrations, and milestones are found in every culture. In keeping with their mission to educate photographers, Pixcellence (www.pixcellence.co.uk) has just published a new blog post entitled 'Wedding Photography Helps Preserve Cultural Traditions and Rituals.'

The article discusses how 'In Hindu culture, marriage is one of the most important sanskaras or rites of passage that a Hindu observes during his or her lifetime. Briefly stated, the marriage or the Vivaah Sanskar is the transition from the first stage of life, devoted to education and learning, to the second stage of life, devoted to building a household and raising children.'

According to the article 'The married couple pursues Dharma, performing the righteous duty, Artha, the acquisition of wealth and Kama, the enjoyment of natural desires. They lead a productive life of work, service and enjoyment, fulfilling various duties and obligations towards themselves, their families and society at large.'

“Marriage in the Hindu culture isn’t just about uniting the individuals but also their families,” stated Pixcellence’s Clwyd Probert, “It is a ceremony that unites not only their physical bodies, but also their souls and spirits. In addition, the event signifies the participants’ acceptance of the responsibilities that come with union.”

Unique marriage customs can be preserved for future viewing by hiring the services of a seasoned professional that offers Asian wedding photography. Pixcellence offers these services as well as coaching courses to help photographers of all levels improve their photographic talents teaching photographic techniques and educating the public about cross-cultural wedding customs.
