Consumers Comfort Inc. - a heating, ventilation and air conditioning business in Vaughan, ON, Canada, is highlighting the fact that despite rising furnace prices, people can purchase new furnaces and qualify for provincial grants to offset the cost of high efficient furnaces, air conditioners and tankless water heaters. Furnace prices in Canada have been steadily rising again due to the strength of the US dollar. Fortunately, grants of up to $2,750 are available to help mitigate this expense. The company is encouraging everyone to contact them as soon as possible to find a suitable solution.

Edgar Brown from Consumers Comfort Inc says: "Our goal is to make sure people can use furnace solutions that enable them to heat their home in an energy efficient manner, and in a way that they can afford. Furnace prices have risen quite dramatically, and we want to help people access the available grants so that they can switch to more energy efficient furnaces without it costing them the earth."

The company only offers furnaces with a high AFUE rating. This means that they are incredibly energy efficient, using only small amounts of energy to create heat. In so doing, people can experience a significant reduction in their overall energy bills. Combined with the grants of up to $2,750, they could actually see a very rapid return on investment.

"We want to make sure that people purchase the right furnace for their needs," adds Edgar Brown. "This means that they are not only energy efficient but that they are also easy to operate and very quiet. The goal of a furnace is to improve the comfort of a living environment, in a reliable way that doesn't damage the environment. This is what we can offer our clients, and we have various ways in place to help them afford this."

Consumers Comfort Inc can help clients access any available grants. However, for those who do not qualify, or who don't have sufficient funds to substitute the price of the furnace if they do qualify, they also offer furnace rental and they have a number of low-interest finance options in place, with no upfront cost and free installation. Interested parties are encouraged to contact the company as soon as possible.
