March 24, 2016 -

Online Visibility Pros, a business based in Phoenix, AZ, recently completed a lead generation campaign for a blue-collar contracting business. Online Visibility Pros is known for their targeted marketing techniques in specific niche markets. Their proven success has piqued the interest of many other businesses in need of reliable lead generation for blue collar contractors.

Online Visibility Pros? Brian Horwitz explained one approach that makes the company?s services so effective. ?We believe that each online marketing campaign is unique. There is no one-size-fits-all approach to building and implementing digital marketing campaigns, especially in today's dynamic marketing world. We've found that by focusing on the resources, needs, and goals of each individual business owner we are able build highly effective lead generation campaigns for our clients. With this approach, we've created hundreds of thousands of leads for our clients.?

Online Visibility Pros caters to the unique marketing needs of blue-collar businesses such as plumbers, HVAC professionals, general contractors, pump contractors, builders, and electricians. These professionals spend little to no time behind a desk and, therefore, don't have time to focus on online lead generation.

Online Visibility Pros takes the reins for busy professionals in need of steady leads, and has consistently produced tangible results for their clients across industries.

A representative from well pump repair and installation company, whom Online Visibility Pros recently worked with for just 90 days, says: "We like to think of ourselves as the best pumping professionals in the area, but how do you really get that message across unless you are online? I have no knowledge about online marketing, nor do I have time to learn about it. Online Visibility Pros came in and, within just 90 days, we?ve received more high quality phone calls from the Internet than we ever have and now people actually know my company as the best in Arizona. Well done guys."

This marketing case study by Online Visibility Pros highlights the success of a 90-day online marketing campaign launch carried out by Online Visibility Pros. It outlines the work that has been done for the company and how this has benefited their bottom line. Sharing the specific, tangible results of this partnership has garnered even more attention for Online Visibility Pros.
