September 11, 2025 -
Emergency Service Pros, a Windsor-based restoration company specializing in water damage cleanup and emergency response services, has announced the expansion of its service area to include Fort Collins and surrounding communities. The expansion addresses growing demand for professional water damage restoration services in Northern Colorado.

The company, which maintains 24-hour emergency response capabilities seven days a week, has established its expansion to better serve residential and commercial property owners facing water-related emergencies throughout the region. The move comes as water damage incidents continue to affect properties across Northern Colorado due to seasonal weather patterns, aging infrastructure, and unexpected plumbing failures.

"Water damage requires immediate professional attention to prevent secondary issues like mold growth and structural deterioration," said Josh Patterson, Spokesperson for Emergency Service Pros. "Our expansion into Fort Collins allows us to provide faster response times and comprehensive restoration services to more property owners when they need help most. We understand that water damage can occur at any time, and having local expertise available makes a critical difference in minimizing property damage and restoration costs."

Water Damage Cleanup services provided by the company include water extraction, structural drying, dehumidification, and complete restoration of affected areas. The company utilizes advanced moisture detection equipment and industrial-grade drying systems to ensure thorough water removal and prevent long-term damage to properties.

Beyond immediate water damage response, the company emphasizes the importance of swift action following water incidents. Mold can begin developing within 24 to 48 hours after water damage occurs, making rapid professional intervention essential for property preservation. The company's technicians are trained to identify and address both visible and hidden moisture that could lead to future problems.

"Prevention and education are key components of our service approach," added Patterson. "While we respond to emergencies around the clock, we also work with property owners to understand potential risks and implement preventive measures. Regular maintenance and early detection can significantly reduce the likelihood and severity of water damage incidents."

Besides water damage services, Emergency Service Pros also offers fire damage restoration, sewage backup, storm damage cleanup, egress window installation and repair, and odor removal.

The Fort Collins expansion represents a strategic growth initiative for the company as it continues to serve Northern Colorado communities. The company maintains its headquarters at 1218 W Ash Street, Suite G, in Windsor while extending its rapid response capabilities throughout the expanded service territory.

Emergency Service Pros, a locally and family-owned company, specializes in comprehensive water damage restoration, mold remediation, and emergency response services for both residential and commercial properties. The company operates 24 hours a day, seven days a week, providing immediate assistance for water-related emergencies throughout Northern Colorado.
