United Van Rentals, with locations throughout California and the southwest, has expanded their fleet with the latest 15 passenger van rentals. The company now offers three 15-passenger van rentals, two different types of the luxury Ford XLT and the Ford E350 or similar models.

"The 15-passenger vans are our most popular, especially for school trips, business events and so forth, and we're now comfortable that we have a great option for everyone. Whether you need a little extra space or want to ride in style with a luxury van, we have you covered," said Louis Della Penna, business manager for United Van Rentals.

The most popular new van is a Ford Transit XLT high roof, extended wagon. It carries 15 passengers, including the driver, and comes with extra cargo space. It is fitted with a stereo with CD player, dual front and rear air conditioning and an in-dash review backup camera. For added safety, it also has back up sensors. Furthermore, all seats come with side curtain air bags. Passengers can also take advantage of the USB, iPod and 110V ports for their own equipment. The van also comes with running boards and has tinted windows, as well as privacy glass.

In addition to the fleet itself, United Van Rentals strives to go where other van rental companies will not, but providing such luxuries as 24/7 dropoff and pick-up, one-way rentals, van pickup and delivery and corporate accounts.
