Escape to Mexico Now?s Latest Video Highlights Working and Living Abroad

September 12, 2025

Greenwich, Connecticut - September 12, 2025 -
Escape to Mexico Now has announced the release of its newest video, available on YouTube, which features host Scott Paton and numerous digital nomads. The video dives into the lives of people who have chosen to live on the move and is part of the company's ongoing mission to provide valuable stories and advice about living and traveling in Mexico.

Scott Paton's extensive global travels, having ventured to more than 40 countries, help shape the guidance offered by Escape to Mexico Now. The company focuses on easing the transition to life in Mexico, offering advice with health, finances, and understanding of local culture. This support is aimed at making the move as smooth as possible for those planning to become expatriates or just looking to travel.

Scott Paton, the founder of Escape to Mexico Now, explains the purpose of the video release: "We believe personal stories from those leading a nomadic lifestyle offer invaluable insights. These narratives provide not just inspiration, but practical advice for anyone considering a similar path. Our goal is to create a rich collection of resources that aid our community in making informed choices about living abroad."

The video serves as a stage for digital nomads to discuss their experiences with remote work, travel tips, adapting to new cultures, and managing finances while living abroad. Viewers get a peek into what day-to-day life is like for people in different countries, and what it really means to pursue a life abroad. This aligns with the company's mission to promote knowledge about health, finances, travel, and cultural adaptation both in Mexico and beyond.

Alex Halbert, one of the video's contributors, shared his thoughts: "Our discussions reveal the joys and challenges of a nomadic lifestyle. Digital nomads are not just dream chasers; they're problem solvers and community builders. Sharing our experiences can guide those considering this lifestyle."

With this video, Escape to Mexico Now covers important topics including taxes, challenges of remote work, and strategies for achieving long-term success abroad. This is in addition to their focus on health and wealth management, travel advice, understanding local cultures, and enjoying authentic Mexican cuisine.

The video is available on YouTube, offering a way to engage with content that combines personal stories with lessons about breaking down barriers to explore life overseas. This digital format means audiences everywhere can easily access these stories.

For individuals or families thinking about moving to or visiting Mexico, the video series is a valuable resource. The Escape To Mexico Now website provides a number of resources, including weather updates, historical insights, and customized courses on key topics for life in Mexico.

The company continues to broaden its offerings by addressing more complex aspects of living and traveling abroad. Their comprehensive courses on language learning, cultural understanding, and effective financial planning are available online. These educational tools are designed to empower their audience, making it easier to adapt to new environments and lifestyles.

The release of the new video is another important step for Escape to Mexico Now as it strengthens its role as a reliable resource for digital nomads and travelers eager to explore the vibrant life Mexico has to offer. By blending personal stories with practical advice, the company remains dedicated to offering helpful guidance while fostering a sense of community among global travelers.
