

All In Solutions California Shares Latest Patient Outcome Data

September 05, 2025

SIMI VALLEY, CA - September 05, 2025 -
All In Solutions California recently shared its latest outcome data, aiming for transparency in the addiction treatment field. By releasing this information, they want to build trust with patients, families, and stakeholders involved in addiction recovery.

The outcome report reveals positive results from data gathered through standard assessments and internal reviews. In the All In Solutions networks, 82% of patients successfully completed their inpatient programs. This is much higher than the national average of 52%, according to the 2018 Treatment Episode Data Set - Discharges. Their outpatient programs, which include Partial Hospitalization (PHP) and Intensive Outpatient (IOP), also performed well. They had a 76% completion rate, far surpassing the national average of 26%.

The company offers a comprehensive range of services, including addiction treatment plans that are customized to cater to the unique needs of each individual. All In Solutions addresses both substance use and co-occurring mental health disorders with a dedication to holistic recovery.

The report also highlights the benefits of All In Solutions California's substance abuse treatment programs on patients' mental health. Standardized testing showed anxiety levels, measured by GAD-7 scores, decreased by an average of 31% for inpatient clients and 48% for outpatient clients. Depression scores, checked through PHQ-9 indicators, dropped by 25% for inpatient clients and 45% for those in outpatient settings.

Client happiness with the services was another positive outcome. Of the 1,329 clients surveyed, 93% felt satisfied with their overall experience at All In Solutions. Additionally, 97% were content with their treatment planning, and 96% were happy with their therapists.

Michael Maddaloni, the COO of All In Solutions, emphasized the importance of these findings. He noted, "Addiction is a chronic disease, and unfortunately, relapse is fairly common. When you combine that with the social stigma of addiction, and especially relapse, it makes tracking long-term patient outcomes difficult. But despite the difficulty, we as treatment providers have an obligation to collect as much data as we can to make informed decisions about improving the treatment experience."

The data in the All In Solutions patient outcomes report shows the importance of a program's commitment to long-term recovery. Studies often say that finishing a program successfully and staying in treatment longer can lead to lasting sobriety and a better quality of life. This report sheds light on the broader benefits of quality treatment.

Beyond just numbers, sharing this report adds valuable data to a field where transparency is often neglected. All In Solutions encourages others to show their data as well, helping reduce transparency stigmas. By promoting openness and responsibility, they aim to support a healthier culture in addiction treatment.

With this data, they aim to demonstrate to other providers how important openness is in gaining patients' trust and advancing the sector.

Overall, All In Solutions California shows how using clear, open data can lead to better treatment practices and greater confidence among consumers. This effort underlines how critical transparency is in healthcare, especially in addiction treatment, as it helps bridge the gap between service providers and their communities.
