

Siam Legal International Receives Thailand BOI Certification for LTR Visa Processing

September 26, 2025

Bangkok, Thailand - September 26, 2025 -
Siam Legal International has received official certification from the Thailand Board of Investment (BOI) as a Certified Agency authorized to process Long-Term Resident (LTR) Visa applications. This government recognition positions the firm among a select group of agencies approved to handle these specialized visa applications directly with Thai immigration authorities.

The certification enables Siam Legal International to provide enhanced services for LTR Visa applicants, including direct communication channels with the BOI and priority processing of applications. As a Certified Agency, the firm can pre-screen documents before submission, helping identify potential issues that might delay approval. The designation also allows for more efficient problem resolution during the application process, with regular status updates provided to applicants throughout their visa journey. Additionally, the firm's certification status provides insights into common rejection issues, enabling better preparation and guidance for clients navigating the complex application requirements.

"Receiving BOI certification validates our expertise in handling complex immigration matters and strengthens our ability to serve international clients seeking long-term residence in Thailand," said Rex Baay, Operations Manager at Siam Legal International. "This certification allows us to streamline the application process significantly, reducing typical processing times and improving approval rates for qualified applicants."

As part of its LTR Visa services, Siam Legal International now includes a complimentary tax consultation for all applicants, addressing one of the key considerations for long-term residents in Thailand. The consultation helps applicants understand their tax obligations and potential benefits under the LTR program. The Long-Term Resident Visa program offers renewable 10-year visas across five eligibility categories: Wealthy Global Citizens, Wealthy Pensioners, Work-from-Thailand Professionals, Highly Skilled Professionals, and Dependents of LTR visa holders. The program provides substantial benefits, including favorable tax incentives for qualifying individuals, work permission without requiring a separate work permit, simplified immigration procedures at Thai airports, and unlimited re-entries throughout the visa validity period.

"The LTR Visa represents Thailand's commitment to attracting global talent and investment, creating new opportunities for both individuals and the country as a whole," added Baay. "Our certification ensures we can guide applicants through every step of this process with the backing of official BOI authorization, giving them confidence that their applications are being handled with the highest level of expertise and compliance."
