Dave Demichei, VP of Sales - California says: "The GTC 1200 is a collaboration of Tadano's renowned quality, standard features and technological superiority and Mantis' reputation for ruggedness, durability, and versatility. It is truly the most productive and versatile Telescopic crawler in the market today."

Coast Crane Company offers both crane rentals and sales. They pride themselves on being able to find any part for any type of crane, and they always look at ways to improve their current offerings, something they have achieved through the addition of the Tadano Mantis GTC 1200.

"We're really excited over this new piece of equipment," says a representative from Coast Crane. "We have had quite a number of clients inquiring about the GTC 1200 in the past and now that we are actually able to offer it, we foresee a tremendous increase in business."

The Tadano Mantis GTC 1200 enables users to pick and carry tremendous weight, through a full 360 degrees. Additionally, it is known for its fantastic design and superior gradability. Furthermore, it is easy to operate and incredibly safe, making it the preferred tool for many in the construction industry. This is also due to the fact that the crane is fully self-erecting.

Ed Hisrich, VP / Officer, Sales and Customer Support at Tadano Mantis Corporation, says: "This piece of machinery is a true combination of the Mantis rugged design concept for out of level lifting, full capacity pick and carry, and the ability to utilize foundation tools; and the Tadano technology for a long and strong telescopic boom and high quality class leading performance.

Those interested in crane rentals are encouraged to contact Coast Crane as soon as possible for further details about the Tadano Mantis. It is likely to be very popular.
