Las Vegas, NV - September 15, 2025 -
Press Advantage is sharing a notable client success story that illustrates the effectiveness of its unique press release distribution model. This approach has shown that it can greatly boost mentions in AI search results, surpassing traditional SEO methods. As a clear example, one client experienced a threefold increase in mentions through Press Advantage's innovative press releases for SEO strategy.

Since it began in 2011, under the management of Velluto Tech Incubator, Press Advantage has offered a wide range of services. The company's method involves carefully crafting and distributing press releases that lead to stronger media placements, increasing domain authority and improving search rankings. This strategy is aimed at businesses wanting to enhance their visibility and credibility online without relying on manual outreach.

Jeremy Noetzelman, a spokesperson for Press Advantage, shared his excitement about the client's achievement, saying, "This case study exemplifies our dedication to offering exceptional press release solutions that deliver tangible results. The client's achievement in tripling mentions in AI search results underscores the efficacy of our tailored approach."

Beyond just sending out press releases, Press Advantage offers services including image and video support, SEO promotion, pixel embed capabilities, and detailed reporting. These features are designed to help improve both visual appeal and technical performance, making sure press releases effectively reach and impact their intended audiences.

Press Advantage allows clients to craft tailored press releases with expert writing and distribution, ensuring authoritative media placements across major platforms, including Yahoo! Finance and NASDAQ. This premium distribution powerfully boosts credibility and reach.

A key part of Press Advantage's strategy is the "Reverse Research" Keyword Spy Tool. Developed over five years, this tool gives clients insights and techniques for targeting high-authority backlinks without relying on typical guest posts or unreliable methods.

Client-friendly features of Press Advantage continue to receive positive feedback, as seen in testimonials from industry experts like SEO & Content Specialist Richard Ellison. Many clients appreciate the reliability of the service and the measurable improvements in search rankings they observe after working with the company.

With the rise of AI search results in today's digital environment, Press Advantage adapts by offering premium distribution channels, such as Yahoo! Finance and NASDAQ. These outlets help enhance the credibility and reach of their press releases.

Another key aspect of their service is the option for clients to book demos. These sessions allow prospective clients to see firsthand how Press Advantage's services can align with their strategic goals, promoting informed decisions.

Jeremy Noetzelman added, "Our platform is designed for those who aim to make a significant impact in their industry. Press Releases For SEO are becoming increasingly crucial as businesses look to stand out in AI search results.
