Caledon, Canada - The Imagination Tree is a popular blog that features play and craft ideas that people can use at home or school. The blogger is a stay-at-home mother who has years of experience in early childhood education and art. Recently the website shared a blog post about using the Fun Chalk Liquid Chalk Markers from Gold Star Selections.

The blog post featuring the Fun Chalk Window Markers showcased an interesting way to use the markers. They were used to make beautiful cardboard lacing hearts which can become Valentine?s cards, Mother?s Day Cards or decorations. The blogger remarked, ?I love using cardboard in art and creative play projects with the kids because it is free, recycled, versatile and looks so good with colour! This little cardboard lacing hearts invitation is so easy to set up.?

They decorated the hearts with the Fun Chalk Window Markers in different colours and patterns. The blogger remarked that she particularly loved the dots and layering effects. The window markers are capable of doing this because they have a fine tip and premium ink. Afterwards the ribbons were pushed through the holes and laced to the top, so that they could be hung around the house.

A company representative from Gold Star Selections remarked, ?We took particular attention to the blog post from The Imagination Tree and see their idea for cardboard laced hearts as an innovative way to use our Fun Chalk Window Markers. The eight fluorescent colors in the package are adequate to form many patterns and layers on the cardboard hearts.?

The Fun Chalk Window Markers from Gold Star Selections are sold exclusively on Amazon.com and backed by a 100% money back guarantee. The window markers are long lasting and have quick drying ink. Clean up can be done easily with a damp cloth.
