September 22, 2025 -
Injury LawStars, a personal injury law firm, has expanded its legal services to address the growing number of traffic collision cases in Lake County, where annual accidents have surged 34 percent since 2015. The firm now provides comprehensive legal representation for the more than 5,000 traffic collision victims each year in the rapidly growing region.

The population boom in Clermont has created unprecedented traffic congestion, contributing to a significant rise in vehicle accidents throughout Lake County. This demographic shift has increased demand for experienced legal representation as insurance companies face mounting claims from accident victims seeking fair compensation for their injuries and losses.

"The dramatic increase in traffic collisions has left many residents unprepared for dealing with insurance companies and the legal complexities that follow an accident," said Katie Miller, a representative for Injury LawStars. "We have structured our practice to provide immediate support through free consultations and aggressive representation that levels the playing field between accident victims and insurance companies."

Injury LawStars traffic collision injury attorneys have developed a systematic approach to handling the complex cases arising from this surge in accidents. The firm conducts thorough investigations of each collision, gathering evidence from accident scenes, reviewing police reports, and consulting with accident reconstruction experts when necessary. This comprehensive methodology helps establish liability and document the full extent of damages for their clients.

The firm's expanded services encompass various types of traffic-related incidents, including car accidents, motorcycle collisions, pedestrian accidents, and commercial truck crashes. Each case receives individualized attention from attorneys who understand the specific challenges associated with different types of vehicle accidents and the unique injuries they cause.

Beyond traditional car accident cases, the firm handles complex matters involving drunk driving accidents, where they pursue both intoxicated drivers and potentially liable establishments. They also represent victims of hit-and-run accidents, working with investigators to identify responsible parties and explore all available sources of compensation.

The growth in traffic accidents has particularly impacted vulnerable road users, including cyclists and pedestrians. Injury LawStars has responded by developing specialized expertise in these cases, understanding the unique legal considerations and biases that non-motorists often face in accident claims.

Working on a contingency fee basis, the firm ensures that accident victims can access quality legal representation without upfront costs. This arrangement allows clients to focus on their recovery while their attorneys handle negotiations with insurance companies and, when necessary, litigation to secure fair settlements.

Injury LawStars serves clients throughout Central Florida, including Lake County, Ocala, Orlando, The Villages, and Wildwood. The firm maintains a comprehensive practice that extends beyond traffic accidents to include premises liability, medical malpractice, workers' compensation, and wrongful death cases. Founded with a commitment to personalized client service, the firm combines extensive legal experience with a client-focused approach to maximize compensation for individuals injured due to negligence or wrongful acts.
