October 16, 2025

SIMI VALLEY, CA - October 16, 2025 -

All In Solutions California has strengthened its intensive outpatient and partial hospitalization programs through the integration of comprehensive trauma-focused therapy and expanded family support services. The addiction treatment center in Simi Valley has developed these enhanced therapeutic approaches to address the complex emotional and relational factors that often underlie substance use disorders.

The expanded programming incorporates evidence-based trauma therapies including Eye Movement Desensitization and Reprocessing (EMDR) and Cognitive Behavioral Therapy (CBT), alongside holistic modalities such as yoga and meditation. These therapeutic interventions are now fully integrated into the center's PHP and IOP levels of care, providing patients with access to specialized trauma treatment while maintaining the flexibility of outpatient services.

"Treatment becomes transformative when it includes healing the emotional and relational fractures beneath addiction?our trauma-informed and family-integrated treatments create that depth of care," said Ashley Morrison, Executive Director, ACSW.

All In Solutions California trauma program addresses the critical connection between unresolved trauma and substance use disorders. Research consistently demonstrates that individuals with histories of trauma are significantly more likely to develop addiction, making trauma-informed care an essential component of effective treatment. The center's approach recognizes that sustainable recovery requires healing not just the symptoms of addiction, but also the underlying emotional wounds that often drive substance use.

The enhanced family integration component provides structured support for loved ones through weekly meetings, curriculum-based learning, and ongoing participation opportunities even after patients complete their primary treatment. Led by licensed marriage and family therapy professionals, the family program creates a therapeutic space for relationships strained by addiction to begin the healing process.

All In Solutions California offers these comprehensive services across multiple levels of care, allowing patients to receive trauma-focused and family-integrated treatment whether they are enrolled in the Partial Hospitalization Program or the Intensive Outpatient Program. This flexibility ensures that individuals can access specialized therapeutic interventions while maintaining their work, school, or family commitments.

The integration of holistic practices such as yoga and meditation complements traditional therapeutic approaches, supporting patients in developing healthy coping mechanisms and stress management techniques. These modalities have shown particular effectiveness in helping individuals process trauma and regulate emotions without turning to substances.

The center's multidisciplinary team includes licensed therapists trained in trauma-specific interventions, ensuring that patients receive specialized care tailored to their unique experiences and needs. This comprehensive approach addresses the full spectrum of challenges that individuals face in recovery, from managing withdrawal symptoms to rebuilding damaged relationships and processing past traumas.
