Dentistry First Expands Access to Dental Services Across Sunshine Coast Communities

September 24, 2025

Mooloolaba, QLD - September 24, 2025 -
Mooloolaba, QLD ? Dentistry First, a dental clinic based in Mooloolaba, has announced that its primary services will now be made more widely available to residents in surrounding Sunshine Coast communities including Buderim, Kunda Park, Mons, and Sippy Downs. The expansion underscores the clinic?s commitment to addressing the increasing demand for preventive, restorative, and cosmetic dentistry in one of Queensland?s fastest-growing regions.

Since its establishment in 2021, Dentistry First has concentrated on a prevention-first approach to dental care. This model emphasises early detection, regular check-ups, and patient education in order to reduce the need for invasive treatments. By broadening access to nearby suburbs, the clinic is responding to shifting population patterns that have contributed to greater demand for dental services across the Sunshine Coast.

The expansion initiative represents a practical adjustment to demographic growth. The Sunshine Coast has been one of the most rapidly developing areas of Queensland, with both coastal and hinterland suburbs experiencing steady increases in population. As residential communities expand in Buderim and Sippy Downs, and as Kunda Park continues to operate as a business hub, the need for accessible healthcare has grown significantly. Dentistry First?s decision to extend its reach aligns with these trends by providing services that are both preventive and restorative in nature.

Dentistry First is led by principal dentist Dr. Jason Phan, who holds a Master of Clinical Dentistry in Fixed and Removable Prosthodontics from King?s College London. His advanced training provides the clinic with the ability to manage complex cases involving dental implants, crowns, bridges, and dentures, in addition to general and cosmetic treatments. This combination of expertise allows the practice to serve a wide range of patient needs, from routine dental examinations to advanced prosthodontic interventions.

?The Sunshine Coast is evolving rapidly, and many residents in neighbouring communities are seeking trusted dental care that is both accessible and reliable,? said Dr. Jason Phan, principal dentist and owner of Dentistry First. ?By extending our services to patients in areas such as Buderim, Kunda Park, Mons, and Sippy Downs, we are ensuring that more families have access to preventive and restorative care that supports their long-term oral health.?

The clinic?s recent expansion has been supported by the addition of clinicians, including Dr. Calvin Kundi, who brings international experience from London. The recruitment of practitioners with diverse backgrounds has strengthened Dentistry First?s capacity to serve a larger geographic area while maintaining patient care standards. This increased clinical capability has been paired with investment in technology, including digital imaging and advanced charting methods, which support more accurate diagnostics and treatment planning.

Dentistry First?s approach has been shaped by broader healthcare priorities in the region. With population growth placing added pressure on both medical and dental providers, there is a recognised need to deliver timely and preventive care to reduce long-term strain on the system. Dentistry First?s prevention-first philosophy is consistent with public health objectives, emphasising the importance of early intervention in maintaining oral health and avoiding more invasive procedures.

In addition to restorative and preventive treatments, the clinic offers cosmetic services such as teeth whitening, veneers, and clear aligners. While these services are often associated with aesthetic outcomes, Dentistry First?s approach integrates them into a larger framework of oral health management. The practice maintains that aesthetic improvements should also contribute to stability and function, ensuring patients benefit from both improved appearance and sustainable dental outcomes.

Educational outreach remains a core element of Dentistry First?s philosophy. Patients in the expanded service areas are encouraged to attend regular check-ups not only for preventive treatment but also for guidance on brushing, flossing, and diet management. These efforts are designed to reduce the likelihood of advanced conditions such as periodontal disease, which require more complex and costly interventions.

?Dentistry today is about combining precision with accessibility,? Dr. Jason Phan added. ?Patients expect modern solutions that deliver comfort and reliability, but they also need a provider that is embedded within the community and understands their long-term health needs. Dentistry First?s expansion into neighbouring suburbs is part of that commitment.?

The extension of services to Buderim, Kunda Park, Mons, and Sippy Downs also highlights the role of prosthodontics within Dentistry First?s care model. As an area of dentistry concerned with the design, manufacture, and fitting of artificial replacements for teeth, prosthodontics addresses a critical need for patients with missing or damaged teeth. By integrating prosthodontics with general and cosmetic dentistry, the clinic provides a more complete service offering, ensuring continuity of care for a wide spectrum of patient requirements.

The announcement comes at a time when healthcare providers across the Sunshine Coast are working to adapt to increasing demand. Dentistry First?s decision to expand access reflects both the needs of growing communities and the opportunities presented by advances in technology and clinical training. The initiative is positioned as part of a longer-term vision for the practice, which intends to build deeper connections across multiple suburbs and contribute to the overall dental health of the region.
