SKIN Clinics Announces Expanded Access to Medical Spa Services

September 25, 2025

September 25, 2025 -
SKIN Clinics has announced the expansion of its medical spa services into additional Calgary neighborhoods, including Marda Loop, Bank View, Strathcona, Signal Hill, Aspen, West Springs, Spruce Cliff, and Rosscarrock. Led by licensed dermatology professionals, the clinic provides wider access to medically guided cosmetic care in a regulated, professional environment.

SKIN Clinics? model combines clinical expertise with aesthetic application, offering treatments that enhance skin quality and wellness through non-surgical procedures with minimal downtime. Clients are assessed by trained staff and receive services in private, structured settings. While not strictly medical interventions, these treatments follow protocols reflecting current dermatology and cosmetic standards.

The medical spa program includes skin rejuvenation procedures, hydration therapy, mild resurfacing, facial treatments, and non-surgical methods to improve tone and texture. Each session is tailored to the client?s skin characteristics, lifestyle, and goals. Treatments are conducted in private rooms by personnel familiar with aesthetic protocols and clinical considerations.

The expansion addresses growing demand for non-invasive aesthetic treatments under qualified supervision. SKIN Clinics distinguishes itself by providing services within a dermatology-led framework, ensuring oversight, equipment selection, client intake, and outcomes tracking follow clinical standards rather than spa-industry conventions.

Dr. Jason Sneath, a board-certified dermatologist, provides clinical direction across SKIN Clinics? network. His oversight ensures safety, accuracy, and consistent procedural guidelines across all locations. The Calgary facility adheres to documentation requirements, sanitation protocols, and quality assurance standards applied throughout the organization.

Each client begins with an initial consultation to discuss skin condition, history, and treatment expectations. A personalized plan is developed, including treatment frequency, aftercare guidance, and timelines for visible results. Practitioners provide follow-up when necessary to optimize outcomes.

Dr. Jason Sneath, Calgary owner of SKIN Clinics, explained that the expansion reflects growing interest in evidence-based skincare. Many clients seek treatments that are comfortable and professionally supervised. The goal is to ensure high standards of care extend beyond Calgary?s core urban center, making medically guided aesthetic treatments accessible to a broader community.

The Calgary clinic, located in the Spider Building on 14th Street SW, features private access, consultation spaces, and treatment rooms designed for a calm, professional experience. Services are available on weekdays and select Saturdays by appointment, with scheduling including pre-treatment instructions and consent procedures.

Medical spa services are ideal for individuals addressing dehydration, dullness, fine lines, or uneven texture. SKIN Clinics does not offer standard spa packages; each treatment is customized based on a clinical evaluation of the client?s skin and goals. All products used are approved for clinical use.

These treatments require minimal recovery, allowing clients to resume daily activities immediately. Post-treatment guidance is provided verbally and in writing, emphasizing hydration, sun protection, and monitoring skin changes.

SKIN Clinics has expanded across Alberta, Manitoba, and Saskatchewan, with each location reflecting professionalism, discretion, and quality. The organization integrates aesthetic treatments with medical integrity, providing clients with safe, personalized care in a regulated environment.

By extending medical spa services to more Calgary neighborhoods, SKIN Clinics demonstrates its commitment to evolving with community needs. Clients can begin or continue structured skincare plans, avoiding inconsistencies and risks associated with unregulated establishments.

Residents interested in medical spa services are encouraged to contact the Calgary clinic by phone or through its website to schedule consultations. All services include pre-appointment screening, medical history review, and skin assessment, ensuring care is safe and professionally managed.
