

Go Industries Inc Expands Dually Truck Mud Flap Line for Commercial Fleet Protection

October 11, 2025

Richardson, TX - October 11, 2025 -
Go Industries Inc, a Texas-based manufacturer of truck protection equipment, has expanded its commercial-grade mud flap offerings to address the growing demand for heavy-duty protection solutions for dually trucks across the commercial trucking sector.

The expanded product line features mud flaps specifically engineered for dual-wheel trucks, measuring 19 inches by 24 inches and constructed from non-recycled rubber materials. The larger dimensions accommodate the wide-body fenders characteristic of dually trucks, which require more substantial coverage than standard single-wheel vehicles. The company also offers 12-inch by 24-inch options for single-wheel applications, ensuring comprehensive protection across various truck configurations.

Dually trucks, known for their dual rear wheels on each side, serve critical roles in commercial operations, hauling heavy loads and towing boats, trailers, and campers. These vehicles require specialized protection equipment to prevent debris, rocks, sand, salt, and road materials from damaging both the truck itself and surrounding vehicles. The expanded mud flap line addresses these specific needs while meeting state regulatory requirements that mandate proper debris deflection systems on commercial vehicles.

"The commercial trucking industry requires equipment that can withstand daily rigorous use while maintaining compliance with state regulations," said a Go Industries spokesperson. "Our expanded mud flap line delivers the durability and coverage that dually truck operators need, whether they're managing fleet operations or running independent commercial services."

The new offerings complement Go Industries' existing truck protection portfolio, which includes grille guard systems and headache racks designed for commercial applications. The company has integrated stainless steel and diamond tread accessories into the mud flap line, allowing fleet operators to customize their vehicles while maintaining professional aesthetics. All mud flap sets are compatible with major truck manufacturers including Chevrolet, Dodge Ram, Ford, and GMC dually models.

The expansion aligns with broader industry trends toward enhanced vehicle protection standards in the commercial sector. As fleet operators face increasing maintenance costs and stricter compliance requirements, proper debris management systems have become essential investments for protecting both equipment and meeting regulatory obligations.

Go Industries backs the expanded mud flap line with comprehensive warranty coverage, reflecting the company's confidence in the durability of their manufacturing processes. The products undergo rigorous testing to ensure they meet the demands of commercial trucking applications, from construction sites to long-haul transportation routes.

Since 1978, Go Industries Inc has manufactured truck accessories, law enforcement equipment, and custom protection solutions for commercial and consumer markets. The company's product portfolio encompasses front and rear protection systems, winch applications, bumper replacements, and specialized equipment for fleet operators. Their manufacturing facility in Richardson, Texas, produces equipment designed to meet the evolving needs of the commercial trucking industry while maintaining the quality standards required for professional fleet operations.
