All In Solutions Wellness Center Reveals Optimal Residential Detox Duration Aligns with Clinical Best Practices

November 15, 2025

WEST PALM BEACH, FL - November 15, 2025 -
All In Solutions Wellness Center has released data showing that clients at its West Palm Beach facility maintain an average inpatient stay of 15.8 days during 2024, a duration that aligns precisely with clinical best practices for medically supervised detoxification and early recovery preparation.

The data reveals that this carefully calibrated length of stay represents a critical balance in addiction treatment?providing sufficient time for complete medical detoxification and emotional stabilization while avoiding unnecessarily extended institutional care that can diminish client engagement. The 15.8-day average at All In Solutions Wellness Center in West Palm Beach mirrors similar outcomes at the organization's other inpatient facilities, including its Simi Valley location, which reports an average stay of 16.1 days.

"A stay of 15 to 16 days allows clients the time needed to detox, reflect, and prepare for the next recovery phase?without unnecessarily prolonging their time in care," said Tamara Sukie, APRN, RN. This timeframe enables clients to progress through the acute withdrawal phase, begin therapeutic interventions, and establish a foundation for continued recovery.

The significance of appropriate treatment duration cannot be overstated in addiction recovery. Research consistently demonstrates that insufficient time in treatment correlates with higher relapse rates, while excessively long stays can lead to diminishing returns and reduced client motivation. The data from All In Solutions Wellness Center indicates that their programs achieve an optimal balance that supports comprehensive healing.

Detoxing at All In Solutions Wellness Center involves a medically supervised process that addresses both the physical and psychological aspects of withdrawal. The facility's Joint Commission accreditation underscores its commitment to maintaining exemplary standards of care throughout the detoxification and residential treatment phases. Each client receives an individualized treatment plan based on their specific substance use history, medical needs, and psychological assessment.

The consistency in treatment duration across All In Solutions facilities reflects a standardized approach to care delivery that prioritizes evidence-based practices. This systematic methodology ensures that whether clients seek treatment in FL or California, they receive the same high-quality care calibrated to optimize recovery outcomes.

Beyond medical detoxification, the residential program incorporates various therapeutic modalities including trauma-focused treatment, integrated family therapy, and faith-based recovery options. These comprehensive services are strategically delivered within the treatment timeframe to maximize therapeutic benefit while maintaining client engagement and momentum toward recovery.

All In Solutions Wellness Center operates as part of a larger behavioral health organization with locations across Florida, New Jersey, and California. The West Palm Beach facility specializes in medical detoxification and residential treatment, which begins a full continuum of care that includes partial hospitalization and intensive outpatient programs through its sister locations. As a member of the National Association of Addiction Treatment Providers, the center maintains rigorous standards for addiction treatment delivery. With over 11 years of experience in addiction treatment and more than 7,700 alumni successfully maintaining recovery, the organization continues to refine its treatment protocols based on outcome data and clinical research.
