

The Little Bamboo Releases Extension To Bamboo Placemats

March 01, 2016

March 01, 2016 -
Sanford, Florida based company, The Little Bamboo, has announced an extension to their product line of placemats. This extension of their current placemats, include bamboo placemats and coasters for everyone who orders through the Amazon marketplace.

Sharon Allen, a spokesperson for the company states, "We felt that coasters and placemats simply go together and since our placemats were so well received, we wanted to add to our product line."

The bamboo placemats, which come in a set of four, now include a set of four coasters. The products are made from natural bamboo, which makes them easy to clean and store. Sharon Allen states that the placemats can be rolled up or stored flat in a drawer.

"They make a great gift," Allen says. "Imagine giving these gorgeous placemats, and the accompanying coasters, for a birthday, bridal, or housewarming gift."

She says that bamboo is a versatile material, and the black border on the placemats and coasters will blend well with most home decor. The placemats have been on the Amazon marketplace for quite some time, and have gained many five star reviews since their initial launch.

Customers claim that they are durable and that they are versatile enough to match any place setting or table type. The company claims that adding in the coasters works as an incentive. Customers who love the placemats they state, are surely going to appreciate the added coasters with their orders. The placemats and coasters contain a mesh backing, which keeps them from sliding across most surfaces, and their color scheme, the company says, is perfect for any table setting or plate design.

Customers ordering from the Amazon marketplace will now receive the set of four placemats as well as the matching four coasters without any additional ordering steps. Those looking for more information about the placemats or bamboo coasters that now accompany them can learn more on the official seller's page for The Little Bamboo on Amazon. The coasters are being sent out along with the placemats in all current orders, and the company states that all products they provide are of the highest quality.
