

Blazek Construction Announces Expansion of Whole-Home Remodeling Services

October 01, 2025

HIXSON, TN - October 01, 2025 -
Hixson, Tennessee ? Blazek Construction, LLC today announced the official expansion of its whole-home remodeling services to residents across the greater Chattanooga area, including Hixson, Soddy-Daisy, Red Bank, Signal Mountain, Dunlap, and Dayton. The Tennessee-based firm, established in 2006, has long been recognized for its design-build approach to construction and is now placing greater focus on helping homeowners reimagine existing properties with complete renovation services.

Whole-home remodeling represents one of the most thorough services offered in the residential construction sector. Rather than addressing single rooms or small-scale updates, this process involves a coordinated redesign of multiple areas, or even an entire property, to reflect modern standards of comfort, safety, and efficiency. With housing demand continuing to rise and many families choosing to reinvest in existing homes, the service addresses a growing need throughout Hamilton County and surrounding communities.

Blazek Construction?s remodeling service is distinguished by its end-to-end workflow. Each project begins with a detailed consultation to evaluate the property, define scope, and establish a realistic budget. The process includes preparing plans, securing permits, and coordinating inspections, ensuring compliance with local building codes. Structural adjustments, new layouts, and system upgrades are then integrated into a cohesive design. Throughout construction, progress is documented with photos, budgets are updated transparently, and homeowners receive timely communication.

As part of this expansion, Blazek Construction is also prioritizing sustainable building practices and long-term homeowner support. Renovations often incorporate energy-efficient windows, modern HVAC systems, and insulation upgrades that reduce utility costs and environmental impact. The company emphasizes collaboration with local suppliers and subcontractors to keep projects on schedule while strengthening the regional economy. Homeowners are encouraged to participate in key decision-making moments, ensuring each design reflects their lifestyle. This client-focused approach has been central to Blazek Construction?s reputation and will continue to guide its work as the demand for complete remodeling grows across greater Chattanooga.

According to Nick Blazek, founder and owner of Blazek Construction, expanding access to this service reflects both community demand and the company?s long-standing commitment to building with accountability. ?Whole-home remodeling gives families the opportunity to stay rooted in the communities they love while updating their homes for the future,? said Nick Blazek. ?By approaching renovations with the same level of care as new construction, we make it possible for homes to adapt to modern lifestyles without losing their original character.?

Key features of the service include floor plan reconfiguration, kitchen and bathroom modernization, improved insulation and energy systems, and smart-home integrations. Unlike partial remodeling, where work is limited to specific areas, whole-home projects are planned inclusively, ensuring each update works in harmony with the rest of the property. The goal is not only to improve visual appeal but also to enhance efficiency, safety, and long-term value.

Safety and cleanliness are treated as priorities during every remodeling project. Blazek Construction employs daily site protection methods such as dust barriers, covered flooring, and careful staging to reduce disruption. This approach allows families to remain in their homes during construction whenever possible, a feature that has been noted as particularly valuable in multi-phase projects. Additionally, oversight from the owner or project manager at major milestones, such as framing, mechanical systems, and final punch lists, ensures work is completed with precision and accountability.

Transparency in budgeting and scheduling has also been central to the company?s remodeling philosophy. Open-book allowances and a written change-order process give homeowners clarity about costs and project adjustments. By limiting the number of concurrent projects, the company ensures each renovation receives senior-level attention, which reduces delays and supports consistent communication. This approach has become a defining element of the firm?s operations across Hamilton County.

The expansion of whole-home remodeling services comes as the Chattanooga region experiences steady population growth and renewed interest in reinvesting in existing neighborhoods. Many of the area?s homes, built decades ago, require modernization to meet current building codes, energy standards, and design preferences. By offering complete renovations, Blazek Construction is enabling families to remain in familiar neighborhoods while updating homes to match contemporary needs.

The company?s decision to broaden this service area was informed by client demand and regional housing trends. In many communities, new construction inventory has been limited, and homeowners are increasingly choosing to adapt their current properties rather than move. With this development, residents of Soddy-Daisy, Red Bank, Signal Mountain, Dunlap, and Dayton will now have direct access to experienced remodeling services without having to look outside their immediate region.

Blazek Construction?s whole-home remodeling services are further reinforced by a written workmanship warranty provided at project completion. Each renovation is handed over with care instructions, warranty details, and documentation of completed work. This focus on accountability ensures that families not only receive an upgraded home but also confidence in its long-term performance.
