

Keathley Landscaping Introduces Expanded Custom Stonework Services for Outdoor Spaces

October 23, 2025

GARLAND, TX - October 23, 2025 -

Keathley Landscaping, a Dallas-based landscape design and installation company, has introduced expanded custom stonework services to meet growing demand for sophisticated outdoor living spaces across North Texas communities. The company now provides comprehensive stonework solutions, including natural and modern designs, retaining walls, outdoor kitchens, and decorative borders for residential and commercial properties.

The expanded stonework services address increasing homeowner interest in creating functional outdoor environments that combine aesthetic appeal with practical landscape solutions. From traditional flagstone installations to contemporary paver designs, the company offers diverse options for properties seeking to enhance their outdoor spaces through professional masonry work.

"North Texas homeowners are investing more in outdoor living areas that extend their usable space beyond interior walls," said Logan Keathley, owner of Keathley Landscaping. "Our expanded stonework capabilities allow us to create everything from elaborate patio surfaces to fully equipped outdoor kitchens, giving families more options for enjoying their properties year-round."

The company's stonework services encompass multiple applications designed to transform outdoor areas into functional extensions of the home. Natural stonework options include flagstone patios and walkways that complement traditional Texas architecture, while modern paver installations provide clean lines for contemporary property designs. Retaining walls serve both decorative and structural purposes, managing elevation changes while adding visual interest to landscapes.

Outdoor living space construction represents a significant component of the expanded offerings. The company designs and builds outdoor kitchens equipped for full meal preparation, outdoor fireplaces that create gathering spaces for cooler evenings, and fire pits that serve as focal points for backyard entertainment areas. These installations require specialized expertise in both masonry construction and outdoor utility integration.

Flowerbed borders crafted from stone materials provide definition and structure to landscape designs while reducing maintenance requirements. These borders prevent soil erosion, contain mulch materials, and create a clear separation between lawn areas and planted beds.

The expansion of custom stonework Allen services reflects broader trends in residential landscaping, where homeowners seek comprehensive solutions from single contractors. Properties throughout Allen and surrounding communities benefit from coordinated design approaches that integrate stonework with existing landscape features.

Keathley Landscaping has established expertise in addressing the unique challenges Texas properties face, including soil movement, drainage concerns, and weather extremes that affect outdoor installations. The company's approach considers these factors during design and installation phases to ensure long-term durability of stonework projects.

Beyond stonework, the company maintains its full range of landscaping services, including sod installation, landscape lighting, yard drainage and grading, French drain installation, fence repair and installation, patio covers, and tree services. This comprehensive service menu allows property owners to coordinate multiple outdoor improvements through a single contractor.

Keathley Landscaping has served the Dallas metropolitan area since 2002, developing expertise in transforming challenging outdoor spaces into functional landscapes. The company provides services throughout Dallas, Allen, Frisco, Plano, Richardson, Garland, and surrounding North Texas communities.
