March 03, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Landscaper Marketing Services, a business in Vancouver, WA, has recently launched their services that are dedicated fully to landscapers and helping them market their services in the online world. The company is also aiming to build a community of landscapers, enabling these professionals to share information and best practice. They are happy to see that their services are proving to be very popular and that they have now designed quite a large number of landscaper websites.

Kalon Wiggins from Landscaping Marketing Services says: "Landscaping has traditionally been an offline business. Most landscapers still get new clients through word of mouth advertising. However, they actually miss out on a lot of business that way. Everything is online now, and people search for everything using the internet. Our goal is to make sure landscapers can have excellent, optimized websites that will help them gain more traffic and attract more clients and build a better name for themselves."

Because the company is also trying to build a community where other landscaping businesses can communicate together, sharing information and best practices, they have also launched their Facebook page. They encourage everyone to like the Landscaper Marketing Services' Facebook page, as this will give them an opportunity to be kept up to date with industry news, and get involved in the conversation.

Kalon Wiggins goes on to explain why their services are so important. "There isn't much attention on the landscaping world online yet. We really aim to change this. Our goal is to help to take these businesses to the next level, in such a way that is manageable as well. After all, landscapers spend most of their time working outdoors so they don't have the time to sit behind a computer. By working as a community, we believe that landscapers can really learn from each other and develop their own best practices."

Landscaper Marketing Services have also released a new YouTube video to highlight the work that they do, and why it matters to landscaping businesses. They encourage everyone to watch it and to contact them for further information and to see what these services can mean for them.
