October 13, 2025

VALENCIA, CA - October 13, 2025 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Promeza MG announces expanded speaking engagements for author and critical care nurse Raul Meza following the continued success of his book "Injection of Faith," which documents real-life stories from 32 years of intensive care unit experience, including patient accounts of near-death experiences.

The book, which draws from Meza's extensive career as a registered nurse in critical care settings, has resonated with both medical professionals and general audiences seeking inspiration and understanding of extraordinary medical experiences. The collection features firsthand accounts of patients who have reported near-death experiences or NDE's and other remarkable recoveries during their time in intensive care units.

Meza's speaking schedule has expanded significantly to include nursing conferences and churches throughout the United States, with recent international engagements in Mexico and Argentina. The bilingual author presents in both English and Spanish, offering his Spanish-language version, "Inyeccion de Fe" to reach broader audiences across the Americas.

"The response to these Near Death Experience Stories has been overwhelming, particularly from healthcare professionals who witness these profound moments but rarely have the opportunity to discuss them openly," said Raul Meza, Author of "Injection of Faith". "Medical staff find validation in these accounts, while families dealing with health crises discover hope and comfort through the experiences of others who have faced similar challenges."

The book addresses a growing interest in the intersection of medical science and spiritual experiences, particularly as more patients and healthcare providers become comfortable discussing extraordinary events that occur in critical care settings. Raul Meza brings a unique perspective as a healthcare professional with over three decades of experience, lending credibility and depth to accounts that might otherwise be dismissed.

Nursing conferences have particularly embraced Meza's presentations, recognizing the value of addressing the emotional and spiritual aspects of critical care alongside clinical training. His talks provide healthcare professionals with frameworks for understanding and supporting patients who report unusual experiences during medical crises.

Church audiences have also welcomed Meza's message, finding in his stories a bridge between faith and medical science. His presentations offer comfort to those grappling with serious illness in their families and provide a unique perspective on questions of faith and mortality.

The international expansion of Meza's speaking engagements reflects growing global interest in understanding NDE's from both medical and spiritual perspectives. His ability to present complex medical situations in an accessible language while maintaining professional credibility has made him a sought-after speaker across diverse venues.
