October 23, 2025

VALDOSTA, GA - October 23, 2025 -
Herring Septic Service, a leading septic services provider in South Georgia, has expanded its fleet capabilities with the addition of a new state-of-the-art septic tank pumping truck to better serve residential and commercial customers throughout the Valdosta, Thomasville, and Tifton areas.

The fleet expansion represents a significant investment in service capacity for the company, which has provided septic tank pumping, installation, and maintenance services across South Georgia for over 15 years. The new pump truck enhances the company's ability to respond to service calls more efficiently while maintaining the high standards of cleanliness and professionalism that have defined their operations.

"We're excited to expand our fleet and continue raising the standard for septic service in South Georgia," said Craig Wisenbaker, representative of Herring Septic Service. "Adding another septic pumping truck allows us to better serve our customers with faster response times and the same high-quality work they've come to expect from Herring Septic Service."

The expansion comes as demand for professional septic services continues to grow throughout the region. Regular septic tank pumping remains essential for preventing system failures and potential health hazards. Industry experts recommend pumping residential septic tanks every three to five years, depending on household size and usage patterns. Without proper maintenance, septic systems can fail, leading to costly repairs and potential environmental contamination.

Herring Septic Service differentiates itself through comprehensive service offerings that go beyond basic pumping. Each service call includes a full inspection of the septic system, checking for potential leaks, evaluating drain field functionality, and providing customer education on proper septic system care. The company's technicians are fully trained for septic tank pumping, inspection and installation throughout Georgia.

The company's service portfolio encompasses septic tank pumping, septic inspection and repair, complete septic system installation, sewer drain line services, drain field installation and repair, pump station services, and commercial grease trap installation and replacement. Pricing for septic tank pumping services typically ranges from $350 to $450, depending on tank size and accessibility. Find Us On Facebook for updates and service announcements.
