Keathley Landscaping Expands Custom Stonework and Yard Drainage Contractor Solutions

November 07, 2025

GARLAND, TX - November 07, 2025 -
Keathley Landscaping, a Dallas-based landscape contractor serving the region since 2002, has expanded its specialized drainage and stonework capabilities to address increasing demand for comprehensive outdoor solutions throughout North Texas communities. The expansion enhances the company's ability to resolve complex water management challenges while creating distinctive outdoor living spaces for residential properties.

The expanded services combine advanced drainage engineering with artisan stonework craftsmanship, addressing two critical needs for Texas homeowners. Poor drainage remains a persistent challenge across the region, where clay soil composition and unpredictable weather patterns create water accumulation issues that can damage foundations, destroy landscaping, and render outdoor spaces unusable during wet seasons.

The integration of drainage and stonework services allows property owners to address multiple landscape challenges through coordinated planning and installation. Retaining walls, for instance, can incorporate drainage systems to prevent hydrostatic pressure buildup while creating terraced garden spaces. Similarly, patio installations can include strategic grading and subsurface drainage to ensure year-round usability.

"Texas properties face unique drainage challenges that require both technical expertise and practical problem-solving," said Logan Keathley, founder and NDS Certified Drainage Contractor at Keathley Landscaping. "By expanding our yard drainage capabilities alongside our stonework offerings, we can provide integrated solutions that protect properties while enhancing their aesthetic appeal and functionality."

The company's drainage solutions range from French drain installation and strategic grading to large-scale custom-designed buried drainage pipeline systems. Each project begins with a comprehensive site analysis to identify water flow patterns and soil conditions, ensuring drainage systems effectively redirect water away from structures and landscaped areas.

The expansion responds to growing awareness among North Texas property owners about the importance of proper drainage infrastructure. Recent extreme weather events have highlighted vulnerabilities in residential drainage systems, with many homeowners discovering that standard homeowner's insurance policies typically exclude coverage for drainage-related damage.

Complementing these technical drainage services, Keathley Landscaping has enhanced its custom stonework in Rockwall and surrounding communities. The expanded stonework portfolio includes natural flagstone installations, modern paver designs, retaining walls, veneers, and complete outdoor living space construction featuring kitchens, fireplaces, and fire pits. These hardscape elements serve both functional and aesthetic purposes, creating defined spaces while managing elevation changes and water flow.

Beyond drainage and stonework, the company provides comprehensive landscape services including sod installation, flowerbed border construction, fence installation and repair, and ongoing maintenance programs. This full-service approach enables coordinated landscape transformations that consider both immediate visual impact and long-term property protection.

Keathley Landscaping has established a reputation throughout the Dallas metropolitan area for developing practical, cost-effective solutions to complex landscape challenges. The company serves Dallas, Rockwall, Plano, Richardson, Allen, Frisco, McKinney, Garland, Rowlett, and surrounding communities, bringing specialized expertise to each project regardless of scope or complexity. With over two decades of experience in North Texas landscapes, the company combines technical proficiency with an understanding of regional soil conditions, weather patterns, and architectural styles to deliver customized outdoor solutions.
