October 27, 2025 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Douglas County Tree Service is proud to support the upcoming Gavin DeGraw concert on Saturday, October 26, 2025, at Greystone Amphitheater in Douglasville, Georgia. The concert is free to the public and will begin at 7:00 p.m. The event is expected to draw a large crowd of residents and visitors for an evening of live music and community gathering.

Gavin DeGraw is a Grammy-nominated artist known for songs like I Don't Want to Be and Not Over You. The concert will take place at 2010 City Hall Arts Center, Douglasville, GA. This performance is part of the city's ongoing effort to bring more entertainment and cultural events to the local area. Greystone Amphitheater is located near downtown and has become a favorite venue for outdoor music events.

Douglas County Tree Service has operated in Douglasville since 2013. The company provides tree removal, tree trimming, stump grinding, and emergency storm cleanup for homes and businesses across Douglas County. The team is fully licensed and insured and has completed hundreds of jobs throughout local neighborhoods, including areas close to the amphitheater.

The company sees this event as a valuable opportunity to give back to the same community it serves every day. According to a company spokesperson, "We are proud to be part of something that brings joy to our neighbors and strengthens the local community. Events like this remind us why we live and work here."

In preparation for the fall season, Douglas County Tree Service is offering free tree inspections to help homeowners address potential hazards. Dead limbs, leaning trunks, and weak branches become easier to spot during the fall months. The company encourages residents to walk their property and look for trees with cracked limbs, visible fungus near the roots, or branches hanging over roofs or driveways. These signs may indicate a need for tree service before colder weather and winter storms arrive.

Unsafe trees can lead to property damage, power outages, and personal injury. They can also create hazards during public events when large groups gather outdoors. By offering fall inspections, Douglas County Tree Service hopes to help reduce risks and support a safer community during this busy season.

The team will have a presence at the concert to connect with residents, answer questions, and share information about their services. Concert attendees will be able to learn more about tree safety and schedule a free estimate directly at the event. The company will also provide printed materials and contact information for those interested in future work.

Concertgoers are encouraged to arrive early, bring chairs or blankets, and dress for cooler October temperatures. The city recommends checking local traffic and parking details in advance. Food options are available nearby, including Gumbaux's Cajun Café, Fabiano's Pizzeria, and Hudson's Hickory House—all popular with both locals and visitors.

Douglas County Tree Service supports local events because they bring people together and build stronger relationships in the community. The company remains committed to providing safe, reliable, and honest work for every customer. By participating in this concert, the team hopes to show continued support for the people and families of Douglasville.
