?Our team is excited to be part of the Holiday Market at LakePoint,? said a company representative. ?This event celebrates everything great about Cartersville ? family, community, and small business spirit. We?re proud to support it and to help residents get ready for the holidays, both at home and in the community.?

Thompson Plumbing will be on-site at the market to meet local families, share seasonal home maintenance tips, and answer questions about plumbing care for the holidays. Visitors can stop by the Thompson Plumbing booth for information on winter plumbing preparation, water heater maintenance, and drain safety. Representatives will also be sharing free educational materials that help homeowners prevent common seasonal plumbing issues.

The company?s team encourages residents to take proactive steps before holiday gatherings begin. Extra guests, cooking, and cold weather can put pressure on household plumbing systems. Common issues like clogged drains, water heater failure, or frozen outdoor pipes can quickly disrupt holiday plans. Thompson Plumbing provides preventive maintenance and emergency repair services to ensure homeowners enjoy a stress-free holiday season.

In addition to its presence at the event, Thompson Plumbing will continue to offer seasonal discounts for Cartersville residents through the month of November. Homeowners can schedule an inspection or service appointment by calling +1 770-256-1324 or visiting the company?s location at 377 Old Mill Rd Suite C, Cartersville, GA 30120.

Vendors from across Georgia will showcase unique products, including handmade decorations, gift baskets, candles, and wooden crafts. The event?s organizers expect a strong turnout as residents prepare for Thanksgiving and the December holidays. Parking is free, and admission is $5 per person, with children ages 5 and under admitted for free.

The company believes in supporting local events that bring people together and boost the regional economy. As a locally owned business, Thompson Plumbing understands the importance of keeping resources and relationships within the community.

The company?s participation also emphasizes the importance of home care during the busy winter months. Thompson Plumbing encourages every homeowner to check key systems before the temperature drops.
