

Classic Car Deals Lists a 1966 Chevrolet Chevy II Nova with 355 V8 and 4-Speed Manual Transmission

November 07, 2025

CADILLAC, MI - November 07, 2025 -
Classic Car Deals, an established online marketplace for vintage and collector vehicles, has added a 1966 Chevrolet Chevy II Nova to its catalog. This listing highlights a well-maintained example of Chevrolet?s mid-1960s engineering and design, offering a clear look at how compact performance models evolved during the muscle car era.

The 1966 Chevy II Nova features a Maroon exterior and a Black interior, a color combination that reflects Chevrolet?s period-correct styling approach. The two-door coupe body maintains its original proportions and design cues, representing an authentic example of the brand?s attention to balance and simplicity.

Chevy Novas have appeared in several Hollywood productions, where its straightforward design and aggressive performance have made it a symbol of grit and rebellion. One of its most recognizable moments comes from Death Proof(2007), directed by Quentin Tarantino, where a 1970 Chevy Nova serves as the menacing stunt car driven by Kurt Russell?s character. The Nova?s raw power and stripped-down styling became an extension of the film?s vintage grindhouse aesthetic.

Earlier, the Nova gained attention in Drive Angry (2011), featuring Nicolas Cage behind the wheel of a modified 1969 model, reinforcing the vehicle?s reputation for toughness and speed. The Nova also appeared in 2 Fast 2 Furious (2003) during the Miami street racing sequences, further connecting the model with performance culture and custom car enthusiasm. Other appearances include Beverly Hills Cop II (1987), Death Race 2000 (1975), and numerous television cameos that continue to feature the Nova as an emblem of raw, American automotive strength.

Powered by a 355 cubic inch V8 engine, the Nova pairs with a 4-speed manual transmission. This mechanical setup provides a traditional driving experience consistent with the original model design, emphasizing control and responsiveness. The vehicle displays 88,770 miles on the odometer and is being sold with a clear title.

The interior continues the period-correct theme, featuring a straightforward layout and durable materials. The Black cabin provides a contrast to the Maroon exterior and aligns with the minimalist design that defined many Chevrolet interiors of the mid-1960s.

This particular vehicle is listed under Stock #CCD181 and bears VIN 115376N133911. The listing includes full details, photographs, and seller information for those seeking a transparent overview of the car?s condition.

The Chevrolet Chevy II line was first introduced in 1962 as a compact alternative within the brand?s lineup, and by 1966 it had earned recognition for its balance between size, performance, and style. The Nova variant quickly became associated with enthusiasts who valued mechanical simplicity and straightforward power delivery. Vehicles from this model year continue to attract collectors who prefer the direct, unassisted driving dynamics that defined 1960s muscle cars.

Classic Car Deals functions as a nationwide hub for classic car transactions, connecting private sellers, collectors, and dealers through an organized online platform. Each listing includes verified details and specifications, along with assistance for shipping, financing, and third-party inspections. This structure supports transparency and accessibility for both buyers and sellers.

The listed 1966 Chevrolet Chevy II Nova represents a practical choice for enthusiasts seeking a mid-1960s model with reliable mechanicals and authentic styling. With its 355 V8, manual transmission, and well-documented ownership details, it illustrates the blend of performance and durability characteristic of Chevrolet?s engineering during that period.
