Heartland Group Design and Build Maintains Strong Project Pipeline Despite Industry Slowdown

November 18, 2025

CARMEL, IN - November 18, 2025 -

Heartland Group Design and Build continues to demonstrate resilience in the construction industry with six active projects currently underway, including four home additions, a three-car garage with upper level construction, and a carport garage with new driveway installation. The sustained activity comes at a time when many construction companies are experiencing reduced demand and project delays.

The company's current project roster reflects diverse residential construction needs across the community, ranging from expanding living spaces through home additions to creating enhanced vehicle storage solutions. The three-car garage project, which includes upper-level construction, represents the type of complex residential improvement that requires comprehensive planning and execution expertise.

"While industry reports indicate a general slowdown in construction activity, we're seeing continued demand for quality home improvement projects," said Chris Schmidt, Construction Manager at Heartland Group Design and Build. "Homeowners are investing in additions and improvements that add both functionality and value to their properties, and our ability to manage multiple project types simultaneously has kept our teams fully engaged."

The Carmel Remodeling Contractor specializes in comprehensive home improvement services, including kitchen and bathroom remodeling, room additions, flooring installation, deck building, garage construction, patio installation, roofing services, and siding installation. This broad service portfolio enables the company to address various aspects of residential construction and renovation within single projects or as standalone improvements.

The current economic environment has created challenges for many construction firms, with rising material costs and interest rate fluctuations affecting project starts. Despite these headwinds, Heartland Group Design and Build has maintained consistent operations through strategic project management and established client relationships.

"Our approach focuses on delivering value through every phase of construction, from initial consultation through project completion," added Schmidt. "The variety in our current projects?from structural additions to garage construction?demonstrates the trust clients place in our ability to handle diverse construction challenges."

The company's active projects showcase its capabilities across different construction disciplines. Home additions require careful integration with existing structures, while garage construction demands attention to both functional requirements and aesthetic consistency with the main residence. The inclusion of upper-level construction in the three-car garage project adds complexity that requires specialized structural expertise.

Heartland Group Design and Build offers complimentary consultations with its construction management team for property owners considering renovation or addition projects. This consultation process allows potential clients to explore project feasibility, understand timeline considerations, and receive preliminary cost assessments for their planned improvements.

Based in Indiana, Heartland Group Design and Build has established itself as a comprehensive remodeling and construction contractor. The company handles projects from conception through completion, managing design, planning, construction, and finishing phases. Its service range encompasses both interior renovations such as kitchen and bathroom remodeling and exterior improvements including deck construction, patio installation, and roofing services. The firm's ability to maintain steady operations during challenging market conditions reflects its established presence in the regional construction market.

###

For more information about Heartland Group Design and Build, contact the company here:Heartland Group Design and BuildChris Schmidt(317) 533-3515chris@heartlandgbd.com600 E Carmel Dr #316, Carmel, IN

46032

Heartland Group Design and Build

Heartland GBD is a trusted design-build firm based in Carmel, Indiana, dedicated to transforming homes across the Indy metro area with exceptional craftsmanship in remodeling, room additions, and outdoor living spaces.

Website: https://heartlandgbd.com/

Email: chris@heartlandgbd.com

Phone: (317) 533-3515