

Adams Pool Solutions Expands Commercial Pool Construction Services for Hotels and Municipalities

November 12, 2025

PLEASANTON, CA - November 12, 2025 -
Adams Pool Solutions, a Northern California pool contractor operating since 1953, announced the expansion of its commercial pool construction division to address increasing demand from hotels, resorts, and municipal facilities throughout the region. The expansion includes additional project management teams and enhanced capabilities for large-scale aquatic installations requiring specialized engineering and regulatory compliance.

The company has completed more than 29,000 projects over seven decades, with commercial pool construction representing a growing segment of its operations. The expanded division focuses on new construction and renovation projects for properties that serve high volumes of daily users, including luxury hotels, municipal aquatic centers, homeowners associations, and educational institutions.

"Commercial pool projects require specialized knowledge of health department regulations, ADA compliance standards, and the operational demands of high-traffic facilities," said Ray Langford, Marketing Director at Adams Pool Solutions. "Our expanded team brings together project managers, engineers, and construction specialists who understand the technical requirements of large-scale aquatic installations."

The expansion comes as Northern California experiences increased development of hospitality properties and public aquatic facilities. Hotels and resorts require pool installations that meet both aesthetic and operational standards, while municipal facilities must balance public access requirements with budget constraints and safety regulations.

Adams Pool Solutions has integrated new technologies into its commercial projects, including energy-efficient circulation systems, automated chemical management equipment, and advanced surface materials designed for high-traffic environments. These systems reduce operational costs and maintenance requirements for commercial properties while extending facility lifespans.

The company's commercial division works with general contractors, architects, and engineering firms on projects ranging from boutique hotel pools to Olympic-sized municipal facilities. Recent projects have included complete mechanical system replacements, deck resurfacing, accessibility upgrades, and the installation of contemporary features that meet current safety standards.

Municipal clients benefit from the company's experience with public sector requirements, including competitive bidding processes, prevailing wage compliance, and coordination with multiple stakeholders. Educational institutions have utilized the company's services for both new construction and renovation of aging facilities that require modernization to meet current standards.

The timing of commercial pool projects presents particular challenges, as hotels must minimize disruptions during peak seasons and municipal facilities must maintain community access to aquatic programs. Adams Pool Solutions has developed project management protocols that address these scheduling constraints through detailed planning and dedicated commercial project teams.

Renovation projects have become a significant component of the commercial division's work, as facilities built decades ago require updates to meet contemporary safety standards and user expectations. These projects often involve complete mechanical system replacements, structural modifications, and the installation of modern equipment that improves both functionality and energy efficiency.

Adams Pool Solutions maintains memberships with the California Pool and Spa Association, the National Plasterers Council, and the Pool and Hot Tub Alliance. The company operates from its Northern California base, serving commercial clients throughout the region with resources developed over seven decades of operation. The expanded commercial division represents the company's response to market demand for specialized contractors capable of managing complex aquatic installations that serve thousands of users annually.
