November 05, 2025 -

Bill Fry the Plumbing Guy, a licensed plumbing company serving Lee's Summit and surrounding communities for over 25 years, has announced the expansion of its water heating services to include comprehensive tankless water heater installation, maintenance, and repair solutions for residential and commercial properties throughout Jackson County.

The service expansion responds to growing demand from area homeowners seeking energy-efficient alternatives to traditional tank-style water heating systems. According to the U.S. Department of Energy, tankless water heaters can reduce energy consumption by 24 to 34 percent in homes that use 41 gallons or less of hot water daily, making them an increasingly attractive option for cost-conscious consumers.

Bill Fry the Plumbing Guy now offers complete tankless water heater services, including site assessments, system design recommendations, professional installation, and ongoing maintenance support. The plumbing company's technicians have completed specialized training in tankless technology from multiple manufacturers to ensure proper installation and optimal system performance.

"Tankless water heaters represent a significant advancement in home comfort technology, but they require proper sizing, installation, and maintenance to deliver the promised benefits," said Bill Fry, owner and master plumber at Bill Fry the Plumbing Guy. "Our team has invested in the training and equipment necessary to help Lee's Summit homeowners make informed decisions about whether tankless systems are right for their specific situations."

The expanded service offering includes evaluation of existing plumbing infrastructure, calculation of household hot water demand, recommendation of appropriately sized units, installation of necessary gas lines or electrical upgrades, and annual maintenance programs designed to extend system lifespan and maintain efficiency ratings.

Bill Fry the Plumbing Guy serves residential and commercial clients throughout Lee's Summit, Blue Springs, Raytown, and surrounding areas in Jackson County. The company holds master plumbing and gas fitting licenses and maintains full insurance coverage. All installations include manufacturer warranties and workmanship guarantees.

The plumbing company also provides traditional water heater services, including tank-style replacements, repairs, and emergency response for water heating system failures. Clients can schedule tankless water heater consultations through the company's website or by phone.

Tankless water heater systems heat water on demand rather than maintaining a reservoir of hot water, eliminating standby energy losses associated with traditional tank systems. The technology has gained adoption in energy-conscious markets and homes with space constraints that make traditional tank installations challenging.

Bill Fry the Plumbing Guy's service expansion includes partnership arrangements with leading tankless water heater manufacturers to ensure access to replacement parts and technical support. The company stocks common maintenance items and replacement components at its Lee's Summit facility to minimize service delays.

For homeowners considering the transition to tankless technology, Bill Fry the Plumbing Guy offers free estimates that include assessment of current water usage patterns, evaluation of existing gas line capacity or electrical service, and detailed cost-benefit analysis comparing tankless options to traditional replacement units.
