Casiii, an innovative one-stop-shop for the most modern keyboard covers and phone cases, is proud to announce the official launch of the Ultrathin Silicone MacBook Keyboard Cover on Amazon. Always striving to provide the latest and most durable technological protection equipment at affordable prices, the company has made the keyboard cover available in various colors, sizes, and designs.

"Most people forget how delicate and refined our precious laptops, tablets, and phones are," said Casiii Founder Nir Cohen. "It's important to invest in the longevity of these massively important devices in our lives. At Casiii, we research, design, and carry the very best protected keyboard skins and phone cases so you don't have to worry about breaking your lifelines."

The MacBook Air keyboard skin fits on almost all Macbooks and sizes. It comes in pink, green, purple, blue, gold, and black. The company will be adding further colors over the next few months. The keyboard cover has been designed to offer protection from dust, dirt, spills and general wear and tear. The company states that the cover can even protect the device from drink spills.

The ultrathin covers are made from engineered thermoplastic silicone, which has been designed to conform to any size of the laptop, with or without retina display. Measuring just 1mm in thickness, it allows for maximum touch-response when typing. Casiii has designed the material to be highly durable to make it last a lifetime. Additionally, the material is fully eco-friendly and 100% recyclable. The cover can also be easily removed and cleaned, which further extends its durability.

"An investment in our keyboard skin is an investment in the durability of your laptop for years," explains Cohen. "For an incredibly inexpensive rate, you'll be ensuring your laptop stays protected, pristine, and functioning through the duration of its life. Consider a Macbook Silicone Keyboard Cover today - your laptop will thank you."

Casiii offers a 100% replacement guarantee for the Macbook silicon keyboard cover, as they fully believe in the quality and effectiveness of the product. This guarantee also extends to the other products that the company has made available. The full Casiii product line can be viewed on the Amazon platform, as well as on their own website.
