

The Light System Sponsors Wellness Event ?Becoming Superhuman,? January 16?18, 2026

November 12, 2025

Miami, Florida - November 12, 2025 -
The Light System (TLS), a light and frequency technology dedicated to advancing human energetic coherence and awareness, announced that it will serve as the presenting sponsor of Becoming Superhuman, a three-day immersive wellness event taking place January 16?18, 2026, in Miami, Florida. The event will bring together recognized voices in the fields of consciousness, wellness, and self-regulation, including Jason Shurka, Dr. Bryan Ardis, Dr. Edward Group, Robert Edward Grant, Aaron Abke, and Peter Heibloem.

Becoming Superhuman is designed as an experiential program for individuals seeking deeper insight into human potential and the mechanics of inner transformation. Over three days, attendees will participate in guided meditations, structured workshops, and group sessions exploring how patterns of thought, emotion, and energy influence perception and behavior. The event?s curriculum follows a progressive arc titled Connection, Laws of Creation, and Becoming Superhuman, with each theme addressing a distinct stage in the process of integration and self-awareness.

The first day, Connection, welcomes attendees through community orientation, group meditation, and a collective ceremony designed to establish focus and presence. The second day, Laws of Creation, delves into the frameworks of consciousness and the underlying principles that shape human experience. The final day, Becoming Superhuman, emphasizes practical integration, offering attendees perspectives on aligning external life patterns with inner growth and intentional awareness. Each session is curated to provide a clear educational structure that encourages both reflection and participation.

As presenting sponsor, The Light System will facilitate live TLS transmissions during select sessions and provide insight into light and frequency-based approaches to energetic regulation. TLS representatives will be available to discuss research and development behind the system?s technology and its non-invasive design principles. To highlight its commitment to advancing public understanding of frequency science, The Light System will conduct a raffle among attendees, offering a TLS Cube or TLS Pyramid, tools used to demonstrate the company?s proprietary waveform and frequency modulation processes.

?The Light System is honored to support Becoming Superhuman as its presenting sponsor,? said a representative from The Light System. ?This event aligns with our mission to create responsible educational opportunities for people to explore energy, consciousness, and coherence in a transparent and grounded way.?

The program?s facilitators aim to create an environment where participants can examine the interface between conscious awareness and energetic structure through discussion, demonstration, and guided practice. Organizers emphasize that the event is experiential and educational in nature, designed to help individuals apply insights about self-regulation and awareness to their daily lives. The weekend schedule integrates periods of learning, reflection, and community dialogue to encourage lasting personal growth beyond the event itself.

In addition to its experiential curriculum, Becoming Superhuman will feature opportunities for attendees to engage directly with the event?s thought leaders through Q&A panels, community networking, and evening integration sessions. These forums are intended to foster dialogue around the practical application of consciousness principles in health, business, relationships, and creativity. By combining scientific insight with spiritual awareness, the event aims to bridge the gap between theory and lived experience, offering a platform where personal development meets collective evolution.
