MEDIA, PA - December 31, 2025 -
Schuster Law has announced a continued focus on family law representation for clients throughout Delaware County, Pennsylvania. The firm provides legal services involving divorce, custody, support, and related domestic relations matters in accordance with Pennsylvania?s Family Court procedures.

?Family law matters often require a balance between legal advocacy and sensitivity to personal circumstances,? said Ken R. Schuster, Esq., founder and managing attorney of Schuster Law. ?Our work emphasizes clarity in explaining the process and ensuring that each case proceeds according to Pennsylvania?s statutory framework.?

Established in 1998 and based in Media, Pennsylvania, Schuster Law represents clients across Delaware County in a wide range of civil cases, including family law, personal injury, and workers? compensation. Its family law practice includes divorce, custody, child and spousal support, property distribution, and protection from abuse (PFA) matters. Each case is managed with attention to procedural accuracy and compliance with the Pennsylvania Rules of Civil Procedure.

Divorce cases in Pennsylvania may be filed under either fault or no-fault provisions. Schuster Law assists clients in preparing filings, negotiating marital settlement agreements, and addressing equitable distribution of assets and debts. The firm ensures that all required disclosures are provided and that property division complies with state law governing marital and non-marital assets. In cases involving retirement benefits or business ownership, Schuster Law works with valuation professionals to achieve accurate financial assessments.

Child custody cases represent a significant portion of the firm?s family law practice. Pennsylvania courts determine custody based on the best interests of the child, considering factors such as parental cooperation, living arrangements, and the child?s educational and emotional needs. Schuster Law helps clients prepare custody petitions, develop parenting plans, and present evidence relevant to the statutory factors used in judicial determinations. The firm also assists in modifying existing custody orders when substantial changes in circumstances occur.

In addition to custody, Schuster Law represents clients in child and spousal support proceedings. The firm uses Pennsylvania?s statewide support guidelines to calculate appropriate payment amounts based on income, dependents, and related expenses. Attorneys prepare financial documentation, review income statements, and represent clients at support conferences and hearings before the Domestic Relations Office. When necessary, the firm addresses enforcement actions for unpaid support through court petitions and wage attachments.

Protection from Abuse (PFA) cases are another area of family law handled by the firm. These cases involve allegations of domestic violence and require expedited hearings and compliance with strict procedural rules. Schuster Law assists clients in preparing evidence, filing petitions, and representing them in hearings to seek or defend against PFA orders. The firm?s approach emphasizes legal compliance and due process for all parties involved.

Family law matters often intersect with other areas of civil practice. Schuster Law coordinates when issues arise related to property ownership, business interests, or estate planning. This multidisciplinary approach helps ensure that clients receive comprehensive representation across related legal areas. The firm?s attorneys remain attentive to the emotional and financial impacts that family law disputes can have while maintaining a focus on factual and legal resolution.

Ken R. Schuster, Esq., has practiced law for more than three decades and is admitted to practice in both Pennsylvania state and federal courts. His leadership emphasizes accuracy, professionalism, and client education across all areas of the firm?s practice. Under his direction, Schuster Law continues to serve Delaware County residents with legal guidance that reflects both procedural precision and ethical standards.
