B&M Crane Rental Contributes to Michigan's Specialty Trade Contractors Expansion with Crane Rental Services

November 20, 2025

FENTON, MI - November 20, 2025 -
A recent state employment report highlights measurable growth in Michigan?s specialty trade contractors subsector, which employs approximately 120,000 workers and recorded a 2.2 percent increase between March 2024 and March 2025. The expansion reflects broader construction activity across the state, with contractors supporting public infrastructure, private development, and industrial maintenance projects.

B&M Crane Rental contributes to this momentum by providing operator-manned crane rentals for a range of applications in residential, commercial, industrial, and communications sectors. The company?s fleet includes all-terrain cranes, rough-terrain cranes, boom trucks, truck cranes, telehandlers, crawler cranes, and tower cranes. These machines are deployed in settings such as bridge construction, tower assembly, stadium projects, and heavy-duty equipment installations.

The company?s operations emphasize safety and efficiency through a network of certified operators trained under current Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) standards. Maintenance schedules and 24-hour technical support are managed internally to ensure continuous equipment readiness. This model allows project teams to maintain consistency in scheduling and execution, particularly in high-demand seasonal construction periods.

Within Michigan?s specialty trade contractor subsector, about 14,300 private establishments currently operate statewide. Smaller firms account for more than half of total employment, underscoring the role of subcontractors and trade specialists in regional development. The state?s median hourly wage of $28.94 exceeds the national median for the sector, reflecting both skill requirements and demand stability.

Key occupations include electricians, HVAC mechanics, construction laborers, and crane operators, with consistent hiring in building equipment and foundation work. Employment projections from state labor data indicate a 1.0 percent increase from 2022 to 2032?an addition of roughly 1,200 jobs. These figures suggest a resilient labor market supported by infrastructure renewal, logistics upgrades, and private-sector investment.

B&M Crane Rental offers crane rental services in Michigan to assist contractors managing diverse and time-sensitive projects. The company?s equipment adapts to varied site conditions, including compact urban environments, coastal weather, and heavy-load terrain.

A company representative stated, ?Michigan?s expanding specialty trade contractor base depends on coordinated equipment support. Our focus on manned crane operations and reliable scheduling contributes to efficient project outcomes.?

Another representative added, ?Safety remains central to every lift. Our operators apply detailed pre-job assessments and technology-assisted positioning to maintain precision while meeting client timelines.?

Consultations at B&M Crane Rental begin with on-site evaluations to identify the appropriate crane type for each project?s conditions and objectives. This ensures that lifting capacity, reach, and terrain compatibility align with engineering requirements. Coordination among the company?s logistics and operations teams supports transportation and setup, reducing downtime and optimizing cost management for clients.

The growth of Michigan?s specialty trade contractor segment also reflects a strong apprenticeship pipeline, with an estimated 12,800 registered trainees statewide. Programs supported by trade organizations and employers aim to strengthen workforce capacity in technical and equipment-operation roles. B&M Crane Rental aligns with these trends by prioritizing skill development and safety training as integral parts of its operational model.

Industry analysts note that moderate construction expansion across the Midwest is likely to continue, aided by infrastructure funding and housing market resilience. Within this environment, crane rental companies provide essential logistical links for projects that require precision lifting and specialized coordination.

Founded by professionals with decades of experience in crane operations, B&M Crane Rental offers comprehensive solutions across Michigan. The company delivers staffed rentals, maintenance oversight, and responsive scheduling for clients ranging from individual contractors to industrial developers. By maintaining a technically equipped fleet and emphasizing workforce training, B&M Crane Rental remains positioned to support the state?s evolving construction landscape.
