

Next Level Decks and Exteriors Expands Siding Contractors Team to Address Rising Home Renovation Demand

December 04, 2025

Tigard, Oregon - December 04, 2025 -
Next Level Decks and Exteriors, a leading exterior contracting company serving Oregon and Washington, has announced the expansion of its certified siding installation team in response to unprecedented demand for home exterior renovations across the Pacific Northwest region.

The Tigard-based exterior home improvement company has scaled its workforce to accommodate the surge in homeowners seeking professional siding installation and repair services, particularly as property owners prioritize exterior improvements that enhance both home value and weather resistance. The expansion enables the company to maintain its commitment to timely project completion while serving additional clients throughout Beaverton, Portland, Lake Oswego, Tualatin, and greater Multnomah County.

"The demand for quality exterior renovations has reached remarkable levels as homeowners recognize the importance of protecting their investments through proper siding installation," said Michael Gray, spokesperson for Next Level Decks and Exteriors. "By expanding our certified team, we can continue delivering the exceptional craftsmanship our clients expect while reducing wait times for new projects."

The company's comprehensive exterior services portfolio includes deck building and repair, patio cover installation, fence construction, pergola building, and specialized dry rot repair alongside its siding services. The expansion particularly strengthens the siding division, which offers cedar, vinyl, and Hardie Plank installation options designed to withstand Pacific Northwest weather conditions.

Industry data indicates that home improvement spending has maintained strong momentum as property owners invest in exterior upgrades that provide both aesthetic appeal and structural protection. Siding replacement ranks among the top exterior renovation projects for return on investment, often recouping significant portions of project costs at resale.

Next Level Decks and Exteriors siding contractors bring specialized expertise in addressing the unique challenges posed by regional climate conditions, including moisture management and proper installation techniques that prevent water infiltration and structural damage. The company's approach emphasizes thorough assessment of existing conditions, identification of any underlying issues such as dry rot, and implementation of solutions that ensure long-term durability.

The workforce expansion coincides with the company's continued focus on maintaining high standards across all service areas. Each team member undergoes comprehensive training in installation techniques, safety protocols, and customer service standards. The company backs all work with a limited lifetime warranty, reflecting confidence in both materials and workmanship.

Next Level Decks and Exteriors has established itself as a trusted name in exterior contracting throughout Oregon and Washington. The company specializes in complete exterior transformations, offering integrated solutions that include decking, fencing, pergolas, patio covers, and siding services. Known for attention to detail, respect for property, and transparent pricing through free estimates, the company has built its reputation on delivering quality results that enhance outdoor living spaces while protecting homes from environmental elements. The expanded team reinforces the company's capacity to serve growing market demand while maintaining the standards that have defined its service approach.
