Divine Desert Destination Highlights Ideal Vacation Rental Timing for Ricardo Breceda Sculpture Unveiling

December 03, 2025

BORREGO SPRINGS, CA - December 03, 2025 -
Divine Desert Destination, a premier desert retreat property in Borrego Springs, is encouraging art enthusiasts to secure accommodations early for the upcoming Ricardo Breceda Sculpture Celebration on December 5th, marking the first new sculpture unveiling in the desert community in over a decade.

The historic event will feature the unveiling of a new work by Ricardo Breceda, the acclaimed artist behind the iconic Galleta Meadows metal sculptures that have transformed Borrego Springs into an outdoor art destination. The unveiling ceremony will take place from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. at 4990 Borrego Springs Road, followed by a reception at Rams Hill from 4:30 to 6:00 p.m.

"This sculpture unveiling represents a significant cultural moment for our desert community, and we're seeing increased interest from art lovers seeking the perfect vacation rental in Borrego Springs to experience this historic event," said Toni Locke, co-owner of Divine Desert Destination. "After spending time exploring the outdoor sculptures and attending the celebration events, our guests appreciate returning to a comfortable retreat with panoramic desert views and private amenities."

The timing of the sculpture celebration coincides with peak visitor season in the Anza-Borrego Desert, when temperatures are ideal for outdoor exploration and the desert landscape provides a dramatic backdrop for both the existing sculpture collection and the new addition. Divine Desert Destination offers a 2,080-square-foot retreat at the De Anza Golf and Country Club, featuring floor-to-ceiling windows that frame 180-degree mountain and golf course views, a private pool and spa, and two spacious bedrooms positioned for maximum privacy.

The property has established itself among Borrego Springs Rentals by Owner as a popular accommodation for cultural tourists and desert enthusiasts. The direct booking model allows guests to communicate directly with owners who have extensive knowledge of the area's attractions, hiking trails, and artistic landmarks.

Breceda's metal sculptures have become synonymous with Borrego Springs since their installation began over fifteen years ago. The collection includes over 130 pieces scattered throughout Galleta Meadows, featuring prehistoric creatures, historical figures, and fantastical beings that emerge from the desert landscape. The addition of a new sculpture after a ten-year hiatus has generated significant interest from both longtime admirers and newcomers to the desert art scene.

The December 5th celebration offers visitors an opportunity to witness the expansion of this unique outdoor gallery while enjoying the natural beauty and tranquility of the Colorado Desert. Attendees planning to participate in both the unveiling and reception are advised to arrange transportation between venues and to wear appropriate footwear for desert terrain.

Divine Desert Destination operates as a licensed and insured vacation rental property, maintaining recognition as both a VRBO Premier Host and an Airbnb Superhost. The property owners, Toni and Greg Locke, have been part of the Anza-Borrego community for many years, initially as visitors and now as property owners committed to sharing their appreciation for the desert's natural and cultural attractions with guests from around the world.
