December 03, 2025

December 03, 2025 -

Fiction Profits Academy announced a series of new performance milestones this week, including updated consumer ratings and year-end growth figures that mark the strongest year in the company?s history. The organization, which provides training and educational resources for individuals entering the fiction publishing sector, reported recent increases in its Trustpilot and Better Business Bureau ratings, as well as a significant rise in annual enrollment.

According to the company, Fiction Profits Academy now holds 4.7-star reviews on Trustpilot, based on more than 2,800 consumer reviews, the majority of which fall within the five-star category. The organization also reported 4.79 star reviews with the Better Business Bureau, supported by approximately 250 submitted reviews. Both rating increases occurred during the past year and reflect the highest cumulative scores the company has recorded to date.

Leadership at Fiction Profits Academy stated that the updated ratings coincide with what has become its strongest period of operational expansion. Internal year-end data show the company grew 33 percent over the previous year, marking the largest annual increase in its nine-year history. The organization reports that enrollment in its fiction publishing education programs has been rising steadily over the past several years, with the latest increase representing the most substantial single-year gain.

The company noted that this growth has contributed to its position within the broader U.S. publishing-education market. Based on enrollment volume and program capacity, Fiction Profits Academy states that, to the best of its knowledge, it is currently the largest U.S.-based education provider focused specifically on fiction publishing. The organization attributes this position to expanding curriculum offerings, operational scaling, and the emergence of self-publishing as a wider professional pathway.

In a statement regarding the updated milestones, the company said that ongoing program development, additional support resources, and improvements to student experience were among the initiatives implemented during the past year. Fiction Profits Academy reports that these organizational adjustments preceded the rise in third-party ratings and contributed to higher engagement among new and existing students.

Fiction Profits Academy emphasized that the company will continue to invest in infrastructure, student services, and curriculum updates throughout the coming year. Leadership noted that plans for 2025 include additional training modules and expanded support channels intended to accommodate the organization?s current growth trajectory.

Recent industry reports continue to show sustained growth in the self-publishing sector, with national data indicating that independent authors now release hundreds of thousands of new titles each year through major digital platforms. Fiction Profits Academy stated that interest in structured training programs has risen alongside this broader trend, with more individuals seeking guidance on story development, publishing workflows, and emerging distribution channels.

More information about Fiction Profits Academy and its programs can be found on the company?s official website. Additional details regarding ratings are available directly through Trustpilot and the Better Business Bureau.
