

Collins Jewelers Introduces Enhanced Custom Jewelry Design Services

December 05, 2025

DALLAS, GA - December 05, 2025 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Collins Jewelers has enhanced its custom jewelry design services in Dallas, GA, to address the growing demand for personalized pieces in 2025. This development allows customers to collaborate on unique creations that incorporate current trends such as engravings and individualized elements. The services draw on the expertise of the store's master jewelers to produce items tailored to specific preferences.

The enhancement includes a structured process for custom jewelry design, beginning with consultations where ideas are discussed and sketches developed. Customers can select from various metals, gemstones, and styles to create rings, necklaces, bracelets, or other pieces. This approach ensures each item reflects personal significance while maintaining quality standards.

Marty Collins, co-owner and master jeweler with over 47 years of experience, oversees aspects of the design process. Keith Collins, co-owner and master jeweler with more than two decades in the field, contributes to the fabrication and finishing stages. Their combined knowledge supports the creation of durable and detailed jewelry.

In addition to custom designs, Collins Jewelers provides jewelry repair and restoration services for existing pieces. These include antique platinum repairs, rhodium plating, stone setting, ring sizing, chain repairs, pearl restrung, engraving, and watch maintenance. Appraisal services for jewelry and gold assist in determining value accurately. Permanent jewelry options are also available for those seeking long-term wear.

The store's focus on custom jewelry design aligns with industry shifts toward personalization, as noted in recent market observations. This trend emphasizes unique expressions through jewelry, with elements like engravings and custom configurations gaining prominence. Collins Jewelers incorporates these aspects into its offerings to meet evolving customer interests.

Located in Paulding County, the store serves the local community with these services alongside its selection of timepieces and other jewelry. Periodic events, such as open houses, provide opportunities for visitors to explore the custom design process and view examples of completed work.

Marty Collins commented on the role of customization in contemporary jewelry. "Custom jewelry design enables individuals to create pieces that hold personal meaning, drawing from current preferences for individualized details," Marty Collins said. "The process involves careful collaboration to achieve results that endure."

Keith Collins added perspective on the technical elements involved. "With experience in various techniques, the store can execute designs that balance aesthetics and functionality," Keith Collins noted. "This enhancement supports customers in realizing their visions through precise craftsmanship."

The store also features promotions like Watch Battery Day, where battery replacements occur at reduced rates on designated dates. Email subscriptions keep customers informed about such opportunities and other activities. These elements contribute to the store's community engagement.

Collins Jewelers continues to integrate new approaches into its services, ensuring the custom design process remains relevant. The business balances traditional methods with modern demands, maintaining its position in the region.

Custom jewelry design at Collins Jewelers draws on a family heritage spanning four generations. This background informs the attention to detail applied in each project, from initial concepts to final products.

The enhancement of these services positions Collins Jewelers to address the personalization trend effectively. Customers benefit from access to experienced jewelers who guide the creation of distinctive items.

As a family-owned operation, Collins Jewelers prioritizes quality in its custom work. The store's legacy supports ongoing adaptations to customer needs.

In summary, the introduction of enhanced custom jewelry design services represents a response to 2025 trends, building on the store's established expertise in jewelry craftsmanship.

Collins Jewelers operates as a family-owned business providing jewelry services across four generations. The store specializes in custom design, repair, restoration, and appraisal, serving customers in Dallas, Georgia, and surrounding areas.
