

CP McGinty Jewelers Features Lab-Grown Diamonds from Surreal Diamond

December 11, 2025

CAPE GIRARDEAU, MO - December 11, 2025 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

CP McGinty Jewelers has incorporated lab-grown diamonds from Surreal Diamond into its inventory, providing options for customers interested in this type of gemstone. These diamonds are produced through laboratory processes that replicate natural formation conditions. The addition aligns with the store's selection of jewelry pieces that include various materials and designs.

Surreal Diamond supplies lab-grown diamonds in Cape Girardeau, MO, noted for their quality and service. These products offer clarity and cut comparable to mined diamonds, available in different shapes and sizes. Lab-grown diamonds have gained significance in the market as sustainable alternatives to mined diamonds, with reduced environmental impact through lower resource consumption and avoidance of mining practices. Customers can select from these for use in engagement rings, necklaces, or custom designs at the store.

As a jewelry store in Cape Girardeau, MO, CP McGinty Jewelers maintains a range of brands, including Fana, Gabriel & Co., Frederick Goldman, Kendra Scott, Martin Flyer, Royal Chain Group, Royal by RJM, and Tacori. Each brand contributes specific styles, from bridal jewelry to everyday pieces. The inclusion of Surreal Diamond extends the store's offerings in gemstone alternatives.

Charles McGinty, Co-Owner of CP McGinty Jewelers, described the role of lab-grown diamonds in current selections. "Lab-grown diamonds provide an option for those seeking gems created through advanced technology, maintaining standards of appearance and durability," McGinty said.

The custom design service at CP McGinty Jewelers allows integration of lab-grown diamonds into personalized pieces. Clients collaborate with staff to specify preferences for settings, metals, and overall design. Engagement rings at the store can feature these diamonds, offering choices for various budgets and tastes.

Samuel McGinty, Co-Owner, commented on the store's approach to inventory. "Over 45 years of operation have guided CP McGinty Jewelers in selecting products that meet community interests, including options like lab-grown diamonds," McGinty said.

CP McGinty Jewelers ensures that all products adhere to quality criteria, with lab-grown diamonds undergoing evaluation for cut, color, and carat. The store provides pieces that blend traditional craftsmanship with modern materials, showcasing unique designs that cater to various tastes. Customers can explore these options through in-store visits or convenient curbside pickup arrangements.

The curbside service facilitates access to items, including those with lab-grown diamonds, by allowing collection without entering the premises. Staff coordinate retrieval to support convenience and ensure a smooth experience. Guidance on care and maintenance is available for all jewelry types, helping customers maintain their pieces' beauty and integrity for years to come.

Throughout its history, CP McGinty Jewelers has adapted to evolving preferences by incorporating new materials and brands. The feature of lab-grown diamonds reflects this ongoing adjustment to include sustainable alternatives. The store's assortment covers a spectrum of price points and aesthetics, making it an ideal destination for various customers seeking quality jewelry.

CP McGinty Jewelers serves as a source for jewelry in the Cape Girardeau area. The integration of lab-grown diamonds adds to the existing custom and designer selections, ensuring customers can find pieces that resonate with their values and style.

As a family-owned business with over 45 years of experience, CP McGinty Jewelers is committed to providing exceptional service and quality. The knowledgeable staff takes pride in helping customers find the perfect piece, whether it's a timeless engagement ring or a unique custom design that showcases personal style. Their dedication to craftsmanship and community engagement sets them apart in the local jewelry market.
